SOVIETS BOMB HELSINKI AGAIN; U. S. CONDEMNS RED INVADERS

SOVIET RAIDS SHOCK NATION, F.D.R. ASSERTS

President Declares Spreading Policy of Force 'Tragic' to Peaceful Nations.

REITERATES MERCY PLEA

Asks Both Finland and Russia to Refrain From Bombing Defenseless Civilians.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt declared today that Russia's invasion of Finland was a "profound shock" to the United States and jeopardized "the rights of mankind to self government."

In a formal statement read to a press conference, the chief executive said all peace loving peoples would "unanimously condemn this new resort to military force as the arbiter of international differences."

The president's statement in full follows:

"The news of the Soviet naval and military bombings within Finnish territory has come as a profound shock to the government and people of the United States.

"Despite efforts made to solve the dispute by peaceful methods to which no reasonable objection could be offered, one power has chosen to resort to force of arms.

"It is tragic to see the policy of force spreading, and to realize that wanton disregard for law is still on the march.

"All peace-loving peoples in those nations that are still hoping for the continuance of relations throughout the world on the basis of law and order will unanimously condemn this new resort to military force as the arbiter of international differences.

Self-Government Jeopardized.

"To the great misfortune of the world, the present trend to force makes insecure the independent existence of small nations in every continent and jeopardizes the rights of mankind to self government.

"The people and government of Finland have a long, honorable and wholly peaceful record which has won for them the respect and warm regard of the people and government of the United States."

Before the press conference the president asked Russia and Finland to pledge before the world that they would refrain from bombing defenseless civilians and unfortified cities.

Mr. Roosevelt's plea was made public shortly after Hjalmar J. Procope, the Finnish minister, told newsmen that Soviet warplanes had dropped bombs on Helsinki and nine other communities in Finland—all of which, he said, were unfortified.

Procope said he had received numerous messages from Americans expressing sympathy for his country and indignation at Rus-

HOME BUILDING TOTAL HITS 217

Number and Valuation of New Houses Started This Year Nearly Double '38 Mark.

Valuation of new residences built or started in the first 11 months of this year is nearly double the total valuation of homes constructed during the same period in 1938, building permit records showed today.

The 127 homes started since Jan. 1 have an estimated valuation of $1,048,250, records show. This is an all-time high both in the number of new houses started in any year in Mansfield's history as well as in total valuation.

During the first 11 months of last year 125 homes with an estimated cost of $687,100 were constructed or started.

The average cost of the homes built this year has been $4,900 as compared with an average of $4,700 last year.

Residential construction which has accounted for nearly half of the total valuations this year, has boosted the cost of all building projects, including remodeling, alterations, additions, residential and business and industrial construction to $2,163,826.

This is $1,116,279 more than the $1,047,547 recorded during the corresponding period last year.

November building valuations were $109,182, or more than $6,000 above the October figures which totaled $103,000. Nineteen new homes were started last month while permits were issued for 15 in October.

DEWEY SET

Declares He'll Accept G. O. P. Nomination If It's Offered.

NEW YORK—(AP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York announced today he would accept the 1940 Republican presidential nomination if it were offered.

Headquarters of the Republican state committee said he would make the announcement in response to a formal request from New York Republicans that he become a candidate.

The ceremonies will take place at the Dewey-for-president committee's new headquarters.

Dewey will open his campaign Wednesday at Minneapolis with a speech in which he is expected to deal with farm problems.

Jenkins To Be Asked To Quit If He Seeks Job Back, Report Says

Thomas C. Jenkins will be asked to resign if he carries out his avowed intention of reporting for duty Tuesday as London prison farm superintendent when his three-month sick leave expires, Associated Press dispatches from Columbus said today.

Jenkins, former head of the Ohio State reformatory here, announced last night, the dispatches said, that he would confer with Welfare Director Charles Sherwood Monday and planned to report for duty the following day. He has been recuperating from a heart ailment on a Morgan county farm near McConnellsville.

Sherwood could not be reached today.

Welfare department sources indicated, however, that removal charges would be filed if Jenkins declined to resign. Jenkins said he had received no resignation request.

His leave Sept. 5 followed orders from Sherwood to "clean up" conditions at the farm from which inmates had been escaping in increasing numbers. Soon after William F. Amrine became acting superintendent, Sherwood reported that a gun, some shells and a quantity of liquor had been discovered at the institution.

Jenkins said he had not talked with Sherwood since his leave but that he had written about a physical examination last week in which his heart was pronuonced normal. He first asked a half-year leave.

HE'S MEANEST MAN IN TOWN

Thief, Posing as Repairman, Steals Radio from Blind Children.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A little blind girl sat at the piano in the Ohio state school for the blind, practicing the scale. A man walked in the room and announced: "I'm the repair man; I came for the radio."

The little girl went on practicing.

Later Miss Ruth Williams, the school's voice teacher, learned the "repair man" was a thief who had stolen the radio which furnished one of the chief forms of entertainment for six of the school's blind children. It had been donated to them.

WATER'S FREE

SALINA, Kas.—(AP)—Free water in December is the annual Christmas present to patrons of the municipal water department.

"Water running through meters now is free," said City Manager H. L. Brown. "We want people to use it freely on lawns, so that the city will be more beautiful next summer and better able to stand continued drought."

RED CROSS TOPS GOAL OF 10,000

15-Year-Old Dream Realized as Roll Call Hits Highest Mark Since World War.

The Richland County Red Cross today sailed "over the rainbow" of a 15-year-old dream of 10,000 memberships.

When the annual Roll Call ended last night the chapter had enrolled 10,020 members and there still were scattered reports to come in that undoubtedly will raise the total. The quota this year had been set at a minimum of 10,000, which was an increase of 400 over last year's membership.

This is the highest membership since the last year of the World War. In 1924 the Roll Call failed and the chapter found itself with only 67 members in the entire city and county.

Officials and workers began to build it up again so that an increased membership quota would be justified. In that same year officials hitched their wagon to the seemingly far-off star of 10,000 members. It has taken 15 years to bring it about, according to Gertrude B. English, oldest continuous worker in the chapter and executive secretary since 1924.

L. W. Birch, general chairman of the Roll Call this year, expressed satisfaction over the re-

FIRST LADY AT DIES HEARING FOR 3RD TIME

Mrs. Roosevelt Hears Student Union Official Testify on Communism Charges.

TAKES FRONT ROW SEAT

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made her third visit in two days to the Dies committee today to hear testimony of Joseph P. Lash, executive secretary of the American Students' union which as been attacked by other committee witnesses as Communist-dominated.

Seeking to observe committee treatment of "young people whom I know and trust" and to assist her young friends in the American Youth congress, Mrs. Roosevelt, only first lady in history to attend a congressional investigating committee session, arrived before the morning session had started.

She again took a front row seat among the spectators and conversed with Lash before he began his testimony.

While Mrs. Roosevelt was attending the hearing, the president at a press conference indirectly replied to the challenge of Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., that the administration either help his committee's inquiry or take the responsibility for killing it.

Up to Congress.

Continuance of the Dies committee, Mr. Roosevelt said, is a question that only congress can decide. Congress, he pointed out, could set up several committees like the Dies group to operate simultaneously.

Asked how she thought the three youthful officers of the American Youth congress handled themselves in their testimony yesterday, Mrs. Roosevelt told reporters:

"I think that should be left to your judgment."

Lash introduced Agnes Reynolds, ASU college secretary, to Mrs. Roosevelt, and they talked briefly.

Lash asked that Miss Reynolds sit beside him so that he could refer to her for information.

He was questioned by Chief Investigator J. B. Matthews, who said he was a former "fellow traveler" of the Communist party.

Lash testified that he was a Socialist party member from 1929 to 1937. He was asked to explain why he resigned from the party.

"I believed," he said, "that the Socialist party was subordinating the interests of the people of a whole to the interests of factional strife."

"Was that issue crystalized by your experience in Spain?" Matthews asked.

"It was one of the things." Lash replied adding that he submitted his resignation about two months after returning from Spain.

He said that he wrote a letter

194 Ships Sunk By Nazis During War, Berlin Says

BERLIN—(AP)—DNB, official German news agency, reported today that from the beginning of the war to Nov. 28, 194 vessels totaling 735,768 tons—both Allied and neutral—headed for Great Britain, had been sunk by German submarines or mines.

DNB said the sinking of 162 ships—52 of them neutral—totaling 639,689 tons was confirmed by German reports.

Non-German sources, the agency said, disclosed an additional 32 ships of 96,079 tons total, half of them neutral, representing 39,321 tons.

The statement listed 150,857 tons of shipping as tankers and said the average was 7,500 tons per ship—in other words, about 20 tankers.

DNB insisted the total losses must be considerably larger, however, charging that the British admiralty had not published all losses, especially those along the British coast.

Warplanes Set Off New Fires In Finn Capital

Big Russian Bombers Drop Explosives; Spray Death On City With Machine Gun Fire; New Government Formed After Former Officials Resign.

HELSINKI—(AP)—Helsinki's chief of police said tonight that 30 women and children were killed by Russian bombs dropped in the raid on the capital early this afternoon. Finnish reports also said that 16 Russian tanks were wrecked by gunfire.

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI—A great squadron of Russian bombers raided Helsinki and its suburbs at 1:15 p. m. (6:15 a. m., EST) today, dropping bombs and strafing with machine guns.

The raid still was in progress at 2:55 p. m. (7:55 a. m., EST).

Finnish anti-aircraft batteries were reported to have shot down several of the raiding planes which were flying low. One bomber was said to have crashed as the result of rifle fire from a hill occupied by civil air defense guards.

Smoke rising in various sections of the city indicated new fires. Many wooden buildings were aflame in the working class section.

It was in this region that Soviet warships yesterday had dropped leaflets urging the proletariat to revolt against "bourgeois tyranny."

Officially 50 were known to have died in yesterday's raid alone. Casualties in the countryside still were undetermined.

Among yesterday's bombing victims was a Finnish scientist, Vaenoe Sihvonen, professor of physochemistry at the Helsinki Technical institute. His colleague, Dr. Ana-Vyorinen, also was killed.

While civilians were taking punishment, Finnish troops were stubbornly holding strategic points. They thrust back the Russian offensive at Karelia.

A new government has been formed but not announced:

Air raid sirens had sounded earlier in the day, but no bombs were dropped and an all-clear signal ended the alarm after the inhabitants had hurried to cover.

The populace emerged from air raid shelters and quickly resumed normal activities.

The withdrawal of many civilians proceeded smoothly. Taxicabs, buses and railroads and private automobiles were crowded with people heavily laden with baggage.

Faces 2 Alternatives.

Finland apparently faced a choice between two desperate alternatives under the pressure of Russian invasion—to ignore a threat to devastate her capital or choose leaders with whom the Soviet government might deal.

The resignation of the Finnish government early today after parliament had given it a unanimous vote of confidence attested the Finns' plight 24 hours after Russia attacked their country by land, sea and air.

The end of the first day's firing found Finland pummeled by swift Russian blows from the Isthmus of Karelia, just north of

BACKGROUND: Reds Fighting To Spread Communist Doctrine

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.

All yesterday, while bewildered citizens of the Doll-Garden country which is Finland were dying from Russian bombs amidst the ruins of their trim cottages and well-kept public buildings, I heard over and over again, in many places:

"But why should this horror have to be visited upon little Finland, of all lands—one of the most popular countries in the world?"

The answer isn't hard to find if we rip through the camouflage with which the Russo-Finnish dispute has been disguised. Both sides charge intolerable aggression, of course, but we needn't bother with that. The underlying cause of this unequal struggle which has shocked both hemispheres as few other events in these recent turbulent years have done, is two-fold.

1. It is a defensive move, calculated to render Russia impregnable against attack from the west.

2. It fits in with other recent Bolshevists' moves in eastern Europe and represents one of the vital preparations for the resumption of the Communist crusade for a "world revolution," that is, a campaign to bring all other countries into the red fold—a world-wide Soviet.

If that is a startling statement, it really shouldn't be, for the whole thing is laid down in the Bolshevist history of the

CABINET: Socialist, Friendly to Reds, Heads Finn Government

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI—Risto Ryti, governor of the Bank of Finland, tonight formed a new cabinet to replace the resigned government of Aimo K. Cajander.

Both Cajander and Eljas Erkko, the foreign minister who directed Finland's recent policy of resistance to Russian demands, were dropped from the new government.

Besides the elimination of Cajander and Erkko, both of whom had been bitterly attacked by the Russian government, principal changes in the new cabinet as shown by an official announcement tonight were:

Appointment of Vaino Tanner, Socialist, finance minister in the Cajander government and considered friendly to Russia, as foreign minister.

Included as minister without portfolio was Huju Kusti Paasikivi, former premier long experienced in Russian affairs and head of the Finnish delegation which had been negotiating with Moscow over the Russian demands.

then explaining his resignation and submitted it to the press and to his friends.

"Unfortunately," he added, "it was made use of only in the communist press. I regret that."

Matthews questioned Lash on relations between the National Student league and the Student League for Industrial democracy, whose amalgamation led to formation of the American Student's union.

"Did you ever participate in the negotiations for amalgamation of the National Student league and the Student League for Industrial democracy?" Matthews asked.

"I certainly did," Lash responded.

Lash explained that the first signs of amalgamation occurred when chapters of the NSL and the SLID at Amherst "discovered that activities of these two liberal clubs," were identical and amalgamated "much to my chagrin." The NSL proposed the merger, he added.

"I did not trust the motives of the people making the proposals," he said.

Most city precincts and county townships met their increased quotas. One township, Perry, almost tripled its quota while Washington township more than doubled its share. Shelby's reports were still incomplete last night but it already had reached its quota of 2,400.

Relief Problem Acute Again

Relief problem in Cleveland, as well as in many other cities, becomes acute again with not enough funds available to take care of the needy. A reduced relief staff in Cleveland is passing out orders to only the neediest clients as welfare officials seek new ways of raising money for the poor. Crowds besiege relief offices, such as the one pictured before a bank now being used as a relief headquarters. If no further fund for relief distribution is raised by Dec. 10, Cleveland's city services will have to be cut, according to Mayor Harold H. Burton.

THEATERS

ONE NEW FILM has had its title changed three times and when it is released in December will bear its original moniker, "Send Another Coffin," which is the title of Presnell's popular mystery story, from which it was made. The picture started out with that title, but producers were afraid of it and changed it to "City For Sale." That didn't sound so good, so "Ladies Know Too Much," was substituted. The latter, although it may have stated a truism, sounded dull and theater men all over the country asked to have the picture released under its original title. It is a fast moving comedy revolving around the investigation of two murder mysteries. The cast includes Pat O'Brien, Edward Arnold, Broderick Crawford, Alan Dinehart, Claire Dodd, Ruth Terry and Phyllis Brooks.

* * *

Bill Powell Back Again.

After a long and serious illness which threatened to cancel his screen career, William Powell is back again and he comes back in his most popular characterization—that of Nick Charles, detective, of the Thin Man stories. Myrna Loy is his missus again and this time there is an addition to the gay but daffy Charles family. "Another Thin Man" opens at the Ohio theater tomorrow for four days. Eight-month-old William Poulsen is a chubby and dimpled son of the Charles! Naturally the story is largely comedy, but it has its thrills and chills.

* * *

Douglas Novel Filmed.

Lloyd C. Douglas' novel "Disputed Passage," in its film version, will be the offering at the Madison tomorrow and the first three days of the week. John Howard is seen in the role of the young surgeon who believed with his mentor, played by Akim Tamiroff, that a man of medical science has no right to any life outside his profession. Dorothy Lamour is the girl who changes his mind. Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are reunited in "The Flying Duces," with Jean Parker to add romance.

* * *

Gene Autry, who has taken the place of Tom Mix as Cowboy No. 1 at the box office and who simulates Mix even to wearing a white, ten-gallon hat and riding boots to social affairs, is starred in "In Old Monterey," at the Ritz. In the story he aids western ranchers regain their land which has been taken over by the government as a bombing base. Also shown is "Indianapolis Speedway."

* * *

Age-Old Quest.

The age-old quest of scientific men to bring dead men back to life is the theme of "The Man They Could Not Hang." Boris Karloff discovers the secret but he himself is the first person to test it. But he finds that restoring the spark of life doesn't bring back the same brain, soul or personality. This film, with "Parents On Trial" makes up the Park theater bill through Saturday.

* * *

High Society Lawyer.

"Society Lawyer" provides a tailor-made role for Walter Pidgeon as the attorney in high society who wins the friendship of a racket man when he defends him and wins an acquittal. Eduardo Cianelli has the role of the gangster whose friendship brings trouble, and Virginia Bruce is the girl. The plot of "Riders of The Sage" is a continuation of the feud between sheep ranchers and cattlemen. Bob Steele plays the heroic role.

PAVING PLANNED

Council Asked to Okay $7,700 Project at Garbage Plant.

Work will be started within the next two weeks on a $7,700 paving project at the garbage disposal plant if council approves necessary legislation Tuesday night, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced today.

The project which calls for the construction by WPA labor of a 20-foot concrete drive from Park avenue east to the disposal plant, hinges on council's dedication of the 1,000-foot strip of land for driveway purposes, Nist said.

Legislation dedicating the present cinder drive as a city street will be submitted to council Tuesday night. The project has already been approved by WPA officials in Columbus.

Approximately 60 men would be employed for a two-month period. The drive would be constructed from surplus materials which have accumulated from other WPA streets jobs and would cost the city little or nothing, Nist added.

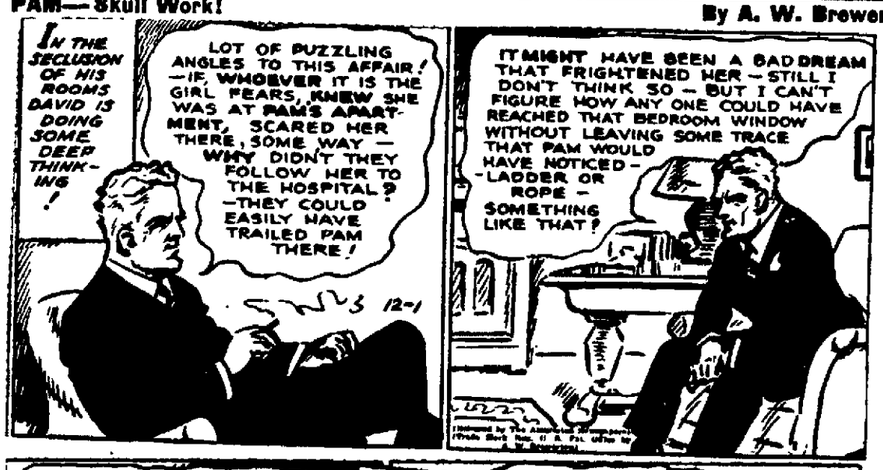
PAM— Skull Work! By A. W. Brewerton



IN THE SECLUSION OF HIS ROOMS DAVID IS DOING SOME DEEP THINKING!
LOT OF PUZZLING ANGLES TO THIS AFFAIR! —IF, WHOEVER IT IS THE GIRL FEARS, KNEW SHE WAS AT PAM'S APARTMENT, SCARED HER THERE, SOME WAY — WHY DIDN'T THEY FOLLOW HER TO THE HOSPITAL? —THEY COULD EASILY HAVE TRAILED PAM THERE!
IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN A BAD DREAM THAT FRIGHTENED HER — STILL I DON'T THINK SO — BUT I CAN'T FIGURE HOW ANY ONE COULD HAVE REACHED THAT BEDROOM WINDOW WITHOUT LEAVING SOME TRACE THAT PAM WOULD HAVE NOTICED — LADDER OR ROPE — SOMETHING LIKE THAT?

—AND HOW'D THEY FIGURE OUT WHICH WINDOW—WHERE THE GIRL WAS? — IT'S A STRANGE CASE — JUST WHY DID SHE SAY THE ONLY WAY TO —CLEAR UP SOMETHING WAS HER SELF-DESTRUCTION?
BUT AT HIS BOARDING HOUSE ADAMS IS BEMOANING HIS LUCK!
THE MAN WHO CALLED THE POLICE? — THAT YOUNG REPORTER HAD A GOOD IDEA ABOUT A PERSONAL AD! I THINK I'LL GO AND TALK WITH HIM — WONDER IF HE'D KNOW HOW TO HANDLE IT IF THIS PERSON DID TELEPHONE HIM?
IT'S NEARLY EIGHT-THIRTY! HE'S NOT GOING T'CALL AGAIN! WHAT A ROTTEN BREAK — THE ONLY EVENING I GET IN LATE A CALL COMES AND I MISS IT!
WAS THAT PHONE CALL REALLY IN RESPONSE TO HIS ADVERTISEMENT?

Prices Up Fractions to Two Points in Active Mart; Sales Show Gains.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks rebounded fractions to around 2 points in today's market with steels and Motors particularly favored.

Dealings, moderately active at the opening, soon flattened out but prices held around the top.

Prominent on the revival were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, DuPont, Union Carbide, American Telephone, Anaconda, and Douglas Aircraft.

A trifle backward were J. I. Case, International Harvester and American Can.

Among items scanned in boardrooms for market trend clues were:

Week-end trade reviews reported public spending was expanding seasonally. Dun & Bradstreet estimated this week's retail gain over a year ago ranged from 6 to 12 per cent for the country as a whole. Merchants, it was added, found a moderate improvement in the size of the average sale compared with 1938, and increased interest in bitter merchandise was noted.

The commerce department announced October automobile exports of $20,067,040 were 53 per cent above September and 9.5 per cent larger than in October last year.

Roosevelt Declares Soviet Raids 'Shock' to Nation; Pleads for Mercy.

sia's invasion of the little Baltic republic.

In his message to the Russian and Finnish governments—which read almost word for word like his previous appeal to Germany and the Allies—the president asked both countries to avoid a resort to the "inhuman barbarism" of aerial attacks on civilian centers.

Mr. Roosevelt said that "the ruthless bombings from the air of civilians in unfortified centers of population" recently had resulted "in the maiming and in the death of thousands of defenseless men, women and children" and had "sickened the hearts of every civilized man and woman."

"If resort is had to this form of inhuman barbarism during the period of the tragic conflagration with which the world is now confronted," the president continued, "hundreds of thousands of innocent human beings who are not even remotely participating in hostilities will lose their lives."

Books For Children

• • •

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

The adventures of normal, healthy children wherever they live always makes a good story if they are created by a good author. Books of this type will be displayed this week in the children's room.

ALL OVER TOWN, by Carol Ryrie Brink—Ardeth found life rather quiet until the new minister and his two sons moved in next door. Then these children and their pets went all over town in search of adventure. While they were quarantined for mumps they had to content themselves with messages sent back and forth on a pulley. Their chief effort was to coax the back-sliders to attend church, but they also created the Volunteer Fire Company, No. 2.

GOOD MASTER, by Kate Seredy—From another country similar adventures of two cousins seem just as interesting. Kate proved herself more of a tomboy than Jancsi himself but the influence of her uncle, the Good Master, helped her to keep from harmful mischief.

Both of these books are recommended for Christmas gifts for children between ten and twelve years of age.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capable mistress of Willoughby house.

DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

YESTERDAY: Attracted by Bill Mallory, but afraid of hurting Ellen, Fabienne suddenly leaves Willoughby house after three months, having won her bet with Nicky.

CHAPTER X.

GERTRUDE, Comtesse de Ligne, maintained a nine-room apartment in New York and a small house in Paris, both rather handsome menages. But it was Willoughby hall, old and white and gracious as the beauty of the belle who had come to it as a bride, nestling in a Maryland valley 20 miles from Baltimore, that was home to Gertrude's daughter, Fabienne Seymour.

It had not always been known as Willoughby hall. It was Carl Seymour who had left it to Mark and Edna Willoughby — having nothing else to leave to his brother and sister-in-law who had been father and mother to his children after his divorce from Gertrude Willoughby, who had cared less for her children than the glitter of European society. It was his one gesture to leave the security of a home to his children.

Richard Seymour had built it for his bride, lovely, spirited Fabienne de Courcy, who came from France to attend a ball in New Orleans and never returned to her native land. They had met and married a decade before the Civil war. None of her dark beauty, but all of her love for the hall, and her spirit, she had left to find its clear trace in her granddaughter.

* * *

The room that had been Fabienne's since she could remember had been the bridal chamber of that first Fabienne. It's walls were hung with the now-faded hand-woven silk that had been brought from France. The painted fire screen, the long oval mirror, the flowered carpet and the spindle-legged chairs that once had served Fabienne de Courcy, were tributes to her grace and femininity.

Lying on the big bed with its headboard of tufted satin, Fabienne Seymour, on that first morning of her return to Maryland, let her eyes sweep lazily over the room and was aware for the first time that it no longer seemed like HER room. It was the room of another woman—a belle. But was not she, Fabienne, a belle?

She arrived at dinner time the evening before and already the invitations had come by telephone and messenger. "Yes, yes," she had said to them all. The invitation to the Hunt ball, the Bachelor's dance, the Hallowell and Jackson parties. "Yes, I'd love to!" To ride with Tom and Jane and Nicky; to tea with young masters at the school that Uncle Mark headed.

She was, and she intended to continue, being a belle. Those three months of service in New York would mean nothing to her. No more than they should mean. She'd done it merely to prove to herself that she could. She'd done it and now she would go back to being what she really was. True, she was no longer a rich girl who could send her bills to her great grandfather. But she had enough money to live pleasantly. She'd always have this home with Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna. Gertrude would finance a trip to Europe if she wanted one. And when she wished to marry, there was Nicky waiting for her. And days of grace and comfortable living.

There was a silver cord that hung beside the tufted satin bed. A touch of her hand would summon old Molly. But the habit formed during three months of routine, eating breakfast when she was dressed, with an eye on the clock, was upon her; she threw back the soft blankets and ran into her bath.

She brushed her silky hair, powdered her nose and hastily applied a scarlet lipstick. Haste. She had no need of haste now. It was not yet 9 o'clock, and she had nothing to do on schedule for the rest of her life. It was a strange feeling that she experienced, being used by now to crowded hours.

Her trunks were not unpacked. Molly would do that later. She hunted about in the closet and found an old pair of jodhpurs, boots and a riding jacket. There were some silk shirts in the highboy drawer.

She dressed hastily, feeling a longing to ride, feeling her first sense of anticipation in weeks.

Mark and Edna were breakfasting before the fire in the library.

"Well!" They greeted her with smiles, surprised.

"Hello, darling," she said. "Any breakfast for me?"

"We thought you'd have it in bed, dear," Aunt Edna said. "You look as if you needed a rest . . . Hector! Breakfast for Miss Fabienne."

Hector brought in a tray of dishes—hot breads and eggs scrambled with chicken livers, a steaming pot of bubbling chocolate.

He put a fresh log on the fire and dropped a cushion in back of Fabienne, who had drawn a big chair up to the table.

* * *

In the hall, the grandfather's clock chimed ten musical bells. Fabienne sipped her chocolate and a row of little bright-eyed faces came before her and the headlines of the newspaper Mark had placed before her. Bright, hungry eyes in little wan or swarthy faces. Bright little smiles as those faces turned to her each morning when she poured hot cocoa into thick mugs. The 10 o'clock morning lunch at the settlement house. Cocoa gulped hungrily. Crackers that disappeared into baby mouths. Always hungry little mouths.

Well, she wouldn't have to think of that any more. That was the way the world was. Always filled with hungry little children. And there were always people to feed them . Fabienne Seymour wasn't needed. That was over and there was something else for her to do.

"Riding this morning?" her uncle asked her.

"Trading," she said. "Hoss-tradin'."

"On Sunday?" Edna asked gently.

"Not exactly trading, darling. Collecting a bet. From Nicky. His mare Betsy is mine now." She told them about the bet she'd made with Nicky that September morning.

"I wouldn't take Betsy, Fabienne," Edna said. "But, of course, you know best."

"Edna's superstitious," Mark said, with an affectionate glance for his wife. "She thinks that good should be done for goodness' sake alone."

"That's because she is good," Fabienne told him. "But I'm not good. I'm one of the selfish girls. Hard, that's me. Out for what does the most for Fabienne. Now I've got to run along. I don't want to waste this beautiful morning. I'll see you some time this afternoon. I'm lunching with the Jacksons."

It was a beautiful day. Cold and crisp, but dry. Not like the cold, damp mornings in New York. The evergreens were bright and the sky sparkled overhead as she marched across the fields and scaled the hurdle fences as easily as a slim-legged boy.

The Bartlett's place was a half-mile across the country and coming in sight of its many wings, Fabienne whistled softly to herself. She had forgotten how imposing it was. And one day it might all be hers.

* * *

She skirted the grounds and entered from the back, making her way to the stables.

Nicky, as she had supposed, was already in the saddle.

He greeted her with a sleepy wave of his arm.

She said, "Well, Brighteyes! All set for a canter? Isn't it a heavenly day?"

He groaned. "You're the only woman in the world that could get me up at this hour on Sunday. I've told Sam to bring Betzy around. I'll have her papers transferred tomorrow."

The sun went behind a cloud for a moment. A rooster crowed somewhere off to the left and one sharp gust of wind blew across Fabienne's face. She shivered slightly.

"Edna's superstitious. She thinks good should be done for goodness' sake alone."

Fabienne said, "Are you superstitious, Nicky?"

"Not much, I guess we all are a little.

"Not me," she told him stoutly. "There's going to be no pay off on that wager, Nicky. I'm not going to take Betsy."

"Why not?"

She said casually. "Oh, I can't afford to keep a mare. You keep her and I'll borrow her."

It was pretty silly of her, she thought, when she was mounted on the spirited little mare, but she felt better about it.

WAR REMINDER

MARTINS FERRY — (INS) — Pre-World War days were recalled here recently when guardsmen were posted on two stone railroad bridges spanning the Ohio river between Bellaire, O., and Benwood, W. Va., and Belpre, O., and Parkersberg, W. Va.

The guardsmen were stationed on the bridges shortly after Adolf Hitler's German legions invaded Poland. A similar situation existed before the U. S. entered the World War.

MINIATURE SUBMARINE WITH TNT PROW COSTS $10,000

(By United Press)

The torpedo—most destructive weapon ever developed for modern naval warfare—is a submarine in miniature.

First utilized on a large scale during the World war when it was used to sink hundreds of ships, the torpedo already has played a prominent role in the new European conflict—notably in the sinking of the British aircraft carrier Courageous.

The modern torpedo is approximately 21 feet long, 21 inches in diameter and carries in its nose a 500 - pound charge of TNT. It travels at a speed of 35 to 50 miles an hour for the first 7,000 to 8,000 yards after leaving the projecting tube and can travel five to six miles, although its accuracy is greatly impaired at such a distance. A submarine can carry from six to 20 of the projectiles, depending on its size.

The torpedo explodes when the "pistol"—a firing pin screwed into the tip of the nose—strikes the side of the ship marked for destruction.

Because the charge explodes upward, rather than forward, attempts, successful to some extent, have been made to set off the TNT before it strikes the ship's hull by building metal "blisters" along and below the water line of warships. Thus the explosion rips away the "blister" but leaves the hull undamaged. But modern torpedoes can be set to explode under the vessel, breaking it in two, because blisters cannot ward off the direct, upward blast.

Torpedoes cost approximately $10,000 each. They generally are divided into six chambers — the head, the airvessel, the balance chamber, the engine room, the buoyancy chamber and the tail.

The head contains the charge. The airvessel, a heavily reenforced steel chamber, contains air compressed to a pressure of 2,500 pounds per square inch which provides the oxygen necessary for combustion of the motor fuel.

In the balance chamber are containers of fuel and water and apparatus for heating the water into steam, this latter being combined with the gases generated by the combustion of the fuel to run the engine, a four-cylinder one in the British torpedo used for this example.

Keeps Constant Level.

The balance chamber also contains mechanism for keeping the projectile at the desired level below the surface of the water by means of weights and the rear rudders.

In addition to the engine, the engine room contains a steering engine, sinking valve, and a reducing valve which keeps air from the air chamber at a constant pressure in the engine.

The gyroscope, which keeps the torpedo on its course, and which may be set to give the projectile a curving path before it straightens to ride down on its objective, is in the buoyancy chamber. On the tail are four-bladed propellors, turning in opposite directions, which provide the motive power.

The first modern torpedo was built in 1862 by Captain Luppis of the Austrian Navy and Robert Whitehead, a Scot who was manager of an engineering factory at Fiume. It weighed 300 pounds and attained a speed of six miles an hour on power provided by compressed air. It was made more accurate later by the invention of the gyroscope by Ludwig Obry, an Austrian.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1939.

As nearly as can be ascertained, those new shiftless motor cars are not intended for that sort of drivers.

Now that the Thanksgivings are over, and with "Dec. 1" staring out from the calendar, it is high time to be getting at that early Christmas shopping.

With Toledo schools closed until the first of the year it would be interesting to learn if the children are as well pleased as the old joke would indicate.

Economy for Defense

SENTIMENT for sharp cutting of other government spending to make way for expected increases in defense appropriations at the regular session of congress appears to be making headway in official circles. Senator Byrnes, one of the majority leaders, is quoted as saying: "I think we are going to find that the people at home are willing to spend all that is needed for national defense, but that they are going to want to cut down on some of the other government spending."

This year more than $1,750,000,000 was appropriated for defense, and it is now believed that an additional deficiency appropriation will be required because of the "emergency" increase made in the army and navy. And men close to Washington affairs estimate that considerably more than $2,000,000,000 will be appropriated for defense purposes in the fiscal year beginning July 1 next.

It should be obvious to the most rampant advocate of government spending that it would be an insane policy to pile new and greatly enlarged defense expenditures on top of other "deficit expenditures." National security is as much dependent on a sound economic structure at home as it is on battleships and airplanes and tanks. If necessity forces an increase in defense appropriations, necessity also requires elimination of non-essential spending in other fields.

The whole federal "emergency" and "relief" structure is alive with waste, duplication of effort, and inefficiency.

Embezzler Faces the Music

WITH all the progress that has been made in psychology, psychiatry and criminology it appears there are many things yet to be learned about the functioning of the human mind before some of its odd quirks can be explained.

There is the case, for instance, of the former assistant cashier of the Franklin county probate court, who has just been sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary after pleading guilty to embezzling funds of the court.

Discharged in October of last year, this 39-year-old man disappeared from Columbus and could not be found after a secret indictment had been returned against him.

But all the while his conscience was bothering him and a few days ago he called up the prosecuting attorney by long distance phone, said he "wanted to face the music and get it all over," and explained that he took the money because he was "spending more than he was making."

Theft, in its various forms, is not an uncommon crime, but when it involves a breach of trust by someone whose position of responsibility was gained by a past record of probity, the occurrence is much more disturbing than under other circumstances.

Nor is the prodding of conscience unusual in such cases—or the final determination to "face the music." A scientific test that would reveal a lurking taint of kleptomania would have value for persons who may question their own ability to refrain from taking money or other valuables not belonging to them. And persons so afflicted might well avoid positions in which there are temptations to steal.

War's Place In History

WILLIAM LYON PHELPS, famous professor of literature and things in general at Yale, says "war is not history but an interruption of history." It is an enlightening and reassuring remark at a time like this.

Anyone who reads history books, written in the old way, may doubt the statement. History in general often seems to be little more than an endless succession of wars. The generals usually get more space than the statesmen. And when a general and a statesman happen to be the same person, there isn't much room for anything else.

Latterly, though, both historians and their readers are getting the idea that wars, instead of being the most important things in the world, are mostly interruptions of things worth while, and that real progress comes not through wars but between wars. Europe made wonderful progress after it had a little time to recover from the confusion, dislocation and exhaustion of the Napoleonic wars.

It may be so after the present era of disruption produced by dictators in Europe and Asia, if it doesn't last too long. Civilization is all ready to go ahead on a hundred fronts of enlightenment, in industry, agriculture, medicine, education, invention, and so on, as soon as peace is restored and the normal processes of living resumed.

Nicaragua's Friendly Offer

THE party of congressmen visiting Central American countries had a warm reception in Nicaragua. President Somoza told them at a banquet:

> "If the United States should ever get into a war, Nicaragua will put 10,000 well-trained men at the service of your country within twenty-four hours. There will be 40,000 men within sixty days, besides our landing fields and other facilities."

We hope that we shall never have to claim that promise, but it warms North American hearts. Naturally enough, Senator Thomas of Oklahoma rose to the occasion and declared his belief that "the United States would more quickly go to war on behalf of Nicaragua than for any other country."

Something may be allowed, of course, for the mutual glow around a banquet table. But why discriminate among friends and neighbors? Uncle Sam likes them all, in spite of occasional difficulties, and wants to get along amicably and helpfully with the whole Pan-American neighborhood.

As nearly as can be judged from this distance, none of the rough spots have been removed from "Tobacco Road," now going into its seventh year of showing 99 per cent of the people how the other one per cent live.

As you may have noted, there's always a "merry twinkle" in the president's eye as he quips about a third term—and he may also regard the messing up of Thanksgiving as a huge joke.

Reaching the age of 100, a St. Louis man says he hasn't worried for ninety years—and this would be no time to break a good habit.

Democrats Refuse to Hold 1940 Convention First

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The health and and disease-control methods employed in the CCC camps could easily prove the most valuable contribution of this agency.

On a strictly voluntary basis, two new vaccines have been tried out on CCC enrollees, one for pneumonia and one for typhoid. That does not mean the enrollees were used as human guinea-pigs as were the heroic soldiers who helped Dr. Reed stamp out yellow fever. But as test cases they have given the medical world a big field for statistical observation.

The annual report of the war department on its participation in CCC work tells part of the story. Lt. Col. Charles G. Souder, in charge of the CCC medical service, supplemented this for us with much background.

Pneumonia is not one of the most prevalent diseases but it has an exceptionally high death rate among its victims. During the past fiscal year, however, the pneumonia death rate even in the comparatively healthy CCC camps was cut to one-third of the rate for the past five years.

* * *

Tough on Rurals.

PNEUMONIA doesn't play square with country boys. It hits them harder and more often than city boys. The reason is not exactly known but widely suspected. Medical men believe that city boys, because of constant public contacts, develop greater immunity to pneumonia than country boys. This is true also for diphtheria.

New England's CCC enrollees, largely from cities, had a minimum of pneumonia despite the rigorous climate. Most pneumonia was among CCC groups in the South. There a larger portion of both negro and white enrollees are from rural areas. Negroes seem especially susceptible to the disease, either from an hereditary characteristic or less resistance due to other causes. Evidence of the vaccine's benefit to them was less certain. But the vaccine worked especially well with southern whites.

* * *

More Virulent.

SUCCESS with a new typhoid vaccine was also apparent. All typhoid vaccine used by the British and until recently by the U. S. army and navy came from one source, serum taken from a British soldier in the Boer war more than 40 years ago. His was the starting "culture." The U. S. Army got a "start" of the Boer war breed from the British in 1911.

But lately the army has believed the British stock not sufficiently virulent. The army wanted a tougher variety which would produce a sounder immunity. A Yankee soldier on duty in Panama was found to be a carrier of a type of adequate virulence. Since 1937 it has been used in the CCC camps and even longer in the army.

Its use has been accompanied by a steady decrease of the disease in CCC camps. Much of this reduction the army attributes to increasingly sanitary conditions. Anyway, CCC typhoid cases were reduced to nine last year, with no deaths among the 230,000 enrollees.

* * *

Venereal Cases Detained.

VENEREAL diseases presented a special problem. Discharge of infected enrollees was found to be an "unsatisfactory" procedure because it endangered others. More recently a new plan was adopted. Victims of the disease are sent at once to a hospital for isolation and treatment. Gonorrhea victims are cured and discharged.

But to discharge a syphilis sufferer, either at the end of his enrollment or before final treatment was completed, would make him a public menace. Now these are discharged only when public agencies will continue the treatment until danger of spreading the infection is past. Where this is not possible the patient is kept in the CCC until cured, even if a re-enrollment is necessary.

Timely Editorial

Will It Continue?

It will be found that the average observer agrees with Col. L. P. Ayres that a genuine business revival is here, but, also, again in accord with the view of Col. Ayres, there will be some speculation as to how long this revival will last.

War orders are suggested by him as partly responsible for the upswing, but there is some skepticism as to how much volume of trade these orders will bring, because they are not at all comparable with those of 1914-15. Stock prices which advanced briskly for a fortnight after the outbreak of the European war have now settled down to somewhat lower levels. Investors, he observes, are seeking safety and avoiding risks.

We have had all the lessons we need regarding over-confidence, wildcatting and forced booms. The lessons of a decade ago are still fresh in our minds.—Ohio State Journal.

ANOTHER DAVID AND GOLIATH

Listen, World!

Damon's Old Man.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU'D like my friend Damon Runyon. Never mind what you do or are, you'd be all for Damon ten seconds after you'd glimpsed that poker-faced map he carries. He's one of those common-denominator chaps who talks every man's lingo—but is plenty scarce with his own. They say he has Will Rogers' punch. But I don't see it. Why drag in Will? Damon has his own punch and it carries as weighty a wallop as the immortal Bill ever delivered. And he's packed that punch—with all its salt and swat—into one grand little book called "My Old Man" (Stackpole Sons).

If you have to cut every other gift off your Christmas list, get that book. It's the best medicine yet for what ails this modern America . . . and calculated to knock the dumb-foolishness out of us quicker'n blazes.

I never knew Damon's old man. If he was half as real as his kid, he rated plenty. Don't get the idea, however, that the old gent was one of these benevolent philosophers with a Pollyanna line. He was the real McCoy with his own honest slant on things—some of which would have given Emily Post the Screaming Meamies.

Consider his remarks on "Male Gossips"—and I'll eat my mascara if a million wives haven't clipped and heaved it at the evening male. For if ever there was Eternal Truth, here's a gob of it . . .

"My old man said that for every pair of women you could find standing gabbing on street corners, he could show you twenty pairs of men doing the same thing. He said the ratio was about the same for hotel lobbies and the corridors of the postoffice and court house and city hall.

"When it came to sitting on steps, my old man said it ran a hundred men to no women. He said he could not recall ever seeing a woman sitting on steps except perhaps in her own yard, while he could take you out almost any pleasant day and show you steps of public buildings fairly festooned with men gossiping like mad."

Then there's the business of full-grown male and female children clinging to the home nest, long after their pin feathers were grown and they were ready for a good, commercial plunking. Lots of Pretty Poetry has been written about said clinging, but according to Damon's Old Man, it is anything but a job and delight. Listen—

"My old man said that every community ought to have a commission that would annually brush children over twenty-one years of age off parents like you knock barnacles off a ship's bottom, especially in cases where the parents did not have the gumption to do it themselves. He said he'd bet this system would bring renewed life and energy to many parents whose progress in life was clogged by their children."

Which is 100 per cent hoss sense. But how about brushing a lot of parents off their children when times are right? If there's anything that clings longer and pestier than a weakling child it's a Possessive Parent who hasn't the spunk to live his or her own life, but wants the kid to do it for him, regardless of said kid's own rights, duties and inclinations. Life SHOULD begin at 40, —but try and make a lot of papas and mamas believe it.

Windbags . . . Nice Fellows Pensions . . . Indulging Wives . . . the Dear Departed . . . Damon's Old Man takes 'em on, each in his turn—and does them browner than a Thanksgiving turkey. But, in the end, he finds one thing that stands all the tests of time and human cussedness . . . six verses that for many a bitter year have carried the human soul through anything it might have to face, even its own weakness and fear. And so after all his laughing low-downs and cynical side-swipes, Damon's old man turns back to that cry from another bewildered mortal which has never failed his erring fellow men . . . nor himself in his hour of darkness or stress—the Twenty-Third Psalm:

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; he leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul; he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Which, s'far as I can see, covers us all, going or coming, in our vanity and folly and fear. And God's blessing on you for its comfort—Damon's Old Man.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Behind that "unofficial spokesman" proposal at Warm Springs that the two parties hold their conventions in August was an inside tip that the Republicans were considering delaying their convention until after the Democrats had held theirs.

This would be an innovation, for in the past the Republicans always have met first. But this time some GOP master minds figured it would be wiser to wait and see whom their rivals nominated, and thus be in a better position to select the type of candidate who could beat him. Of course, the big thought behind this strategy was the third term question, whether Roosevelt would or would not run again.

However, word of the plan leaked to the Democrats and they pulled a double play.

At Warm Springs, through a member of his staff, the president sent up his trial balloon regarding later convention dates. In Washington, Democratic politicos privately informed Republican leaders that if the GOP convention was held off until the Democrats were supposed to have met, the latter, in turn, would postpone their convention until September.

Not only could the Democrats do this very easily, but it would be good politics for them to do so. For the longer the Republicans delay picking their candidates and getting their campaign under way, the better it will be for the Democrats. The latter have their organization ready, and their platform will be the record of the New Deal.

The Republicans, however, will not only have to draw up their platform, but must carry it to the people. This will take time, and they can't afford to wait until September.

* * *

Charlie McCarthy.

WHITE HOUSE favor means nothing to Edgar Bergen (Charlie McCarthy).

When the National Press club made preparations for their annual dinner honoring the president, they asked Roosevelt what American entertainer he would most like to hear. The answer was—Charlie McCarthy.

Promptly a wire went to Hollywood, telling Bergen of the president's desire to hear him, and asking him to come to the dinner. A note of caution was added that Bergen should not exploit this appearance to his own advantage.

To the dismay of Press club officers, the reply came that Bergen was about to start production of a new picture and could not come.

* * *

Japanese Dilemma.

SWIFT diplomatic teamwork was played by the state department and the Japanese foreign office last week when Under Secretary Welles rapped the Japanese government over the knuckles and warned it to reform in China.

What no one outside the state department knew was that the Tokyo foreign office had been warned in advance that this rap was coming and is understood to have approved.

This may sound like weird diplomacy, but what Welles was aiming at was to strengthen the hand of the moderate civilian elements inside the Japanese government, weaken the hold of the military.

It happens that ill-feeling between the military and the navy-civilian group is almost as bitter in Japan as the feeling toward China. It is even feared that fascist hot-bloods among the young army officers may assassinate civilian government leaders and set up a complete dictatorship.

However, it also happens that the chief thing which worries the Japanese military is American policy—especially when it is barefisted and tough. This is what Roosevelt's policy in the Far East consistently has been. Forthright statements by Ambassador Grew and Sumner Welles criticizing Japan, plus the U. S. navy at Hawaii, have made Tokyo worry.

Today, the Japanese army is staging one last desperate effort to recoup its prestige and prove that it can win in China. That is what is behind the drive to cut off Chiang Kai-shek's munitions route in South China. If this drive fails, you can look for major internal troubles in Japan around next January.

* * *

McNutt's Brain Trust.

FEDERAL Security Administrator Paul McNutt has quietly gathered around him a Brain Trust rivaling that of Roosevelt in the balmiest days of Professor Moley.

McNutt's Brain Trust, it should be noted, is not political, but for the purpose of unraveling red tape and advising him on his far-flung social security set-up. The men he has drafted are tip-top in their line. Here is the roll call of the McNutt Brain Trusters:

Fowler Harper, new general counsel, former law professor at the University of Indiana, where McNutt was dean.

David Cushman Coyle, economic philosopher of the New Deal, who has contributed to many of Roosevelt's speeches.

Prof. Alton Burdine, expert on public administration borrowed from the University of Texas.

Professor Clarence Herr, tax expert from the University of North Carolina.

Prof. Frank Coe, economist from Johns Hopkins university.

Incidentally, Professors Herr and Coe will concentrate on cleaning up the Social Security board, where millions of "John Doe" or unidentified old-age pension records are giving headaches to New Deal generalissimos.

* * *

Anti-Third Term.

LIKE most senators below the Mason-Dixie line, South Carolina's "Cotton Ed" Smith voted to lift the arms embargo. But that doesn't mean he has made his peace with Roosevelt. No, siree!

Recently he was asked to name his favorite in the 1940 presidential derby. Smith apathetically conceded that he liked Garner and might support him, but added that a dark horse might suddenly develop who would suit him better.

Then the questioner popped the third term issue. In a flash Smith was sitting bolt upright, and in a loud voice, with his fore-finger waving vigorously, he said:

"War or no war abroad, I most emphatically do not consider it necessary to nominate the president for another term. I would disfranchise myself before I would vote for any man for a third term. We have 130,000,000 people in this country and it is an insult to our intelligence to say that we have only one man with enough sense to be President."

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

When Congressman Dies stamped around his office last week complaining that Super-Sleuth J. Edgar Hoover would not co-operate, he was chiefly sore because he had wanted Hoover to serve a subpoena on an alleged Communist named Mink. Hoover told Dies (1st) that G-Men were not authorized to serve subpoenas; (2nd) that he didn't know where Mink was and couldn't waste the time of his staff looking for him. . . . Believe it or not, but Governor Lloyd Stark of Missouri has been discouraging friends from urging his appointment as secretary of the navy. He is more anxious to be elected senator from Missouri, replacing Senator Truman. . . . Charming Mrs. Bob Taft, wife of the Ohio presidential candidate, is accompanying him on his western speaking tour. Politicos rate her a more effective campaigner than the senator.

Moving In November

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR LANDLORD became homesick for the place we occupied, and we were house-hunting for three weeks during November. Hunting a home is peculiarly trying business, especially at this season. It takes first place, for, next to food and clothing, a house to live in is fundamental to a family's very life and health. Renters have small choice of homes. Building companies are serving the public well when they help a worthy couple to own a home and pay for it like rent.

Many evenings during the past month we spent in looking at farmhouses. Those empty now often lacked much comfort, or were situated poorly with relation to school bus routes. Often, returning tired and discouraged, from such a trip, we passed lighted farmhouses where a peacefully smoking chimney attested the cozy warmth within, and we envied those folk who were settled for the winter.

Then we talked with a real estate man whose specialty is farms. We found a farm which we might own by using what financial earnings we can command, and we were happy. Four days later we moved. We will not need to move so soon again.

The mover's truck took one big load of the heavier furniture, and I borrowed a neighbor's trailer to haul the rest. The weather was with us, for the days were not too cold and the nights were clear and moonlight.

We made two night trips back to our former home to haul the fowls. The hens were much surprised at being lifted from their roosts and squawked a little. But we hustled them summarily into the bottom of the trailer, beneath two old tables and a bench which served as an improvised roof, and they huddled together nervously, and kept quiet. The turkeys were more sensible. When we had covered the floor in the back of our car with old sacks, we stood them in and chuckled at the way they adjusted themselves without a flutter. The homeward trip was uneventful, on quiet country roads, with little traffic.

My wife and baby were along. The baby slept. We hugely enjoyed the moonlight drive and the satisfaction of knowing that our birds were safely penned into the big shed of the barn was celebrated with a cup of hot tea, when we reached home and found that the rest had gone to bed, but left the kettle boiling.

U. S. TO FIGHT SOIL EROSION IN 4-COUNTY AREA

Plans to Buy 10,000 Acres of Wasteland for Development as Forests, Pasture.

A project calling for the purchase of 10,000 acres of wasteland in Richland, Ashland, Knox and Holmes by the federal government as a part of its soil conservation program was announced today by Ernest E. Miller, Ashland, district land utilization manager.

Government agents will start immediately to buy the land from farmers and develop it for forests and pastureland. After erosion of the land has been halted it will be leased to farmers in the area whose present farm units are too small to provide an adequate livelihood, Miller said.

"By acquiring additional pasture lands, most of the farmers will be able to raise livestock on lands that should not be cultivated because of erosion," he added. "In that way, the farmers can make a living until the land has been re-built."

In Reservoir Areas.

Most of the land is in the Charles Mill and Pleasant Hill reservoir areas. It is rough and stony and generally unfit for cultivation. The sections to be purchased in Richland county are in Worthington and Monroe townships in the southeastern part of the county.

"The government development program," Miller said, "includes reforestation of gullied and seriously eroded cropland, seeding of cropland to pasture, construction of fence, water development, erosion control, and the use of lime and fertilizer to enrich the soil."

He added that the work will aid in flood control by helping to prevent the rapid flow of water down the hillsides and reducing sedimentation in the Pleasant Hill reservoir.

KEEPS EYE ON BEAR

ELY, Minn.—(U.P.)—Enrollees in a CCC camp near here police the woods, a 750-pound bear polices the camp, and a small domestic cat polices the bear. Both fur-bearing animals are well-mannered members and have the run of the camp. The only thing the bruin is afraid of is the cat.

DELAYS O. S. U. PROGRAM HERE

Alumni To Hold Ohio State Day Observance Late This Month.

While alumni and former students of Ohio State university joined throughout the country today in the annual observance of Ohio State Day, plans were being made for a similar program sometime late this month in Richland county.

Although no definite day has been set for the observance, it is planned to hold it sometime near Christmas to allow present students who will be home for their Christmas vacation to attend, Atty. Henry P. Huston, chairman of the county program, said.

Chairmen of rallies today in nearby counties are H. E. Russell, Ashland; Dr. Luther High, Holmes and Russell Williams, Morrow county.

NOVEL BY ARLEN ON LIST OF NEW LIBRARY BOOKS

Historical Stories, Volumes for Music Students Other Additions This Week.

A new novel by Michael Arlen and several books that will interest music students are on the list of new books at the Public library today. They will be ready for circulation Monday.

THE BRIDE, by Margaret Irwin is the story of Louise, Princess of Bohemia and James Graham, Marquis of Montrose, the fourth of a series of seventeenth-century historical novels. The book relates the struggles for the Stuart cause from January 1649, when Charles the First was executed, to May, 1650, when the Marquis of Montrose was executed in Edinburgh. The characters are interestingly drawn against a cultured, sophisticated background of court and country manor.

TO THE END OF THE WORLD by Helen C. White tells of a young man who desired, in 1788, to be a monk, to reawaken the spiritual life of France. Michel de la Tour d'Auvergne loved the Abbey of Cluny but he found his dreams defeated by the turbulent conditions of his day.

THE FLYING DUTCHMAN by Michael Arlen is a tale of international intrigue mixed with satire and psychology. The chief character, Chance Winter, a wealthy Englishman, secretly plots the assassinations, the labor troubles, the wars that disturb Europe for years.

Other fiction includes:

PALE HORSE, PALE RIDER: THREE SHORT NOVELS, by Porter.

TODAY IS ENOUGH, Dobson.

MURDER IN STYLE, Fetta.

MUSIC FOR FUN by Sigmund Spaeth is an appealing and practical book explaining music so that the amateur may enjoy it intelligently. Spaeth analyzes all forms of music and even prints some simple piano melodies for longing but untrained fingers. He assumes that a majority of people respond to some kind of music with pleasure and he hopes to enable them to express this pleasure more definitely.

BALLADS AND SONGS FROM OHIO, collected and arranged by Mary O. Eddy contains 153 items. More than 100 traditional tunes accompany the text. The titles include local variations of the oldest type of English folk-songs, traditional songs having for their themes events in early Ohio history, etc. A native of Perrysville, and a public school music instructor, Miss Eddy has spent years gathering these songs.

MUSICAL VIENNA by David and Frederick Ewen is the story of a city which has ruled unchallenged as the queen city of music for about two hundred years. The influence of the city and its culture on the lives of many famous musicians and composers is described.

Lost Thousands In Cemetery 'Deal', Witnesses Say

AGED WOMEN, MEN TESTIFY IN FRAUD CASE

Farmer, 81, Declares He Gave $81,000 in Securities on Promise of Profits.

(By United Press)

CINCINNATI — Charles D. Thompson, an 81-year-old Syracuse, Ind., farmer, who said he invested $31,000 in securities in Arlington cemetery lots, was a witness today in the federal court trial of 12 men charged with fraud in sales of the lots.

Cross examined by Morton Gilbert, one of the defendants, Thompson told Gilbert that he would have realized the importance of his investment "if you had made it out of farming."

Thompson testified that in return for his securities he received lots "back in timber, a half mile from where the salesman said they were."

He said he understood that Gilbert was "the main man" in the sales organization.

Other elderly men and women were witnesses at Thursday's session of the trial. They testified that they had been promised big profits and quick return on their investments in cemetery lots.

Miss Anna A. Wetter of Chicago, under cross examination, expressed surprise when a defense attorney asked her about "lots" she owned.

"Lots!" she exclaimed. "I didn't know I owned lots. I own one lot."

"The records show you own 10 lots," Attorney Edward Dixon replied.

Mrs. Anna P. Long of Leon, Ia., testified that she had received $7.81 in return for $5,200 in securities which she said were taken from her by Arlington salesmen.

Miss Laura La Cost of Albia, Ia., said she had given $5,490 in securities in the spring of 1936 to Arlington salesmen after being told it was a "wonderful investment."

Three other witnesses told of "losing" funds invested in 1936 with the various Arlington companies. One, the Rev. Glenn Dunbar of Hampshire, Ill., testified for his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lilla A. Kent, who is ill. He said she gave $1,700 in depreciated securities to salesmen.

He said he was surprised to receive cemetery lots in return because she had thought the securities were to be liquidated. J. W. Reynolds, 80, retired teacher of Kincaid, Kan., testified he gave up $1,500 in securities on a promise the sum would be doubled.

Mrs. Mae A. Atkins of Sumner, Ill., said at various times she and her husband paid $5,000 in cash and securities for cemetery lots.

CHECK ON FUNDS

School Heads in Columbus to Ask About Allocation Cut.

Three Richland county school officials went to Columbus today to learn from the state department of education why the recent county allocation of state school funds was about $4,000 short.

In the delegation were Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools; W. S. Weekley, superintendent of Butler village schools, and Olan LaRue, Madison township superintendent.

Most of the cut in the allocation was in the funds that went to the Cass township and Butler village schools, although school officials could not determine definitely how much those districts lost.

The allocation, representing the last quarterly distribution of state foundation money, gave the county schools $47,000. In the past they have received approximately $51,000 in the quarterly allocations.

PLANS DRASTIC ECONOMY MOVE

Mt. Gilead Mayor Recommends Fire Hydrant and Street Lighting Shut-off.

MT. GILEAD — Mayor James P. Bennett says he will recommend to council at its next session that the street lights and water supply for fire hydrants be turned off as an emergency move.

Mayor Bennett admitted his move was the result of a ruling by Common Pleas Judge P. H. Wieland Wednesday that a two-mill levy for street light and hydrant rental has not passed in the recent election.

The village had brought suit to get the levy placed on the tax duplicate contending that only a majority vote was needed while state officials said 65 per cent of the vote was needed. Judge Wieland ruled that 65 per cent of the vote was needed.

Mapor Bennett said that abolishing of the post of night officer here would also be considered. Local insurance men have estimated the hike in insurance rates at from 40 to 100 per cent should the water supply for the hydrants be turned off.

Some village officials say they do not think it is possible to turn off the street lights or water supply under the present contract with the Marion Reserve-Power company.

Approximately 200 searchers, including townspeople of Diamond, the Portage county deputy sheriff's members of the Ravenna police and fire departments, and the Ravenna American Legion, scoured the woods and nearby coal shafts.

FINLAND FORMS NEW CABINET

The new premier is 50 years old, an ex-minister of finance, has headed the bank of Finland since 1923 and is a member of the progressive party.

Reports received from Moscow that a "people's government of the democratic republic of Finland" had been formed in Terijoki by leftists and rebel Finnish soldiers evoked ridicule in Helsinki.

Terijoki is the Finnish town nearest where Russian troops first crossed the border above Leningrad yesterday and Tass, official Russian agency, announced formation of the new regime.

(Terijoki apparently was in the Russian zone of occupation; a regime formed there presumably would have the approval of the Russian authorities. There was no indication whether Russia intended to accept the Terijoki regime as the government of all Finland.)

The Ryti cabinet was formed during a day in which Russia extended her attacks on Finland, bombing Helsinki and many other cities and machine-gunning civilians in the streets of the capital.

The conflict raged from Finland's arctic tip around to her southwestern shore, where batteries of the stronghold of Hangoe were reported to have sunk a Russian warship as the defenders stood off a daylong attack from the sea.

S. GLENN VINSON

C. Glenn Vinson was elected president of Raemelton Riding club last night at the club's annual dinner meeting at the Women's Club.

Vinson succeeds James Bailey. Louis J. Ott was named vice president, and Mrs. L. B. Hamilton was elected secretary-treasurer, an office she has held since the organization of the club more than ten years ago. Bailey was made chairman of the horseshow committee.

The dinner speaker was Charles Newcomb sr., of Delaware, formerly professor of public speech and drama at Ohio Wesleyan. Mr. Newcomb, who is the father of Charles E. Newcomb jr., of Mansfield, has spoken in Mansfield a number of times.

Last night he combined humor with philosophy. His subject was "What Are You Afraid Of?" and he listed the five great fears that are a check to human accomplishments and happiness. They were, he said, fear of self, or lack of self-confidence; fear of loss or insecurity; fear of accidents and disasters; fear of group or public opinion; and fear of the unknown. The antidote for all of these, he pointed out, may be found in the simple truths of the Bible.

Newcomb was presented by Harvey Bailey, who served as toastmaster.

MAIL $30,000 IN YULE CHECKS

Christmas Savings Largest Since Plan Was Started, Officials Report.

BUCYRUS — Checks totaling $30,000 were mailed out by the four Bucyrus banks today in Christmas savings club accounts. This year's club deposits was the largest since the Christmas savings clubs were inaugurated, bank officials stated.

In addition to the Christmas club savings, impetus to the Christmas shopping spree will be given by the issuance of checks totaling $5,800 in the county by the Bucyrus office of unemployment compensation.

The checks ranging from one dollar to $90 are authorized to be issued to claimants whose original unemployment benefit checks have been in amounts less than prescribed, under the new formula.

HOLD REHEARSALS

BUCYRUS — Members of the Bucyrus Music club are holding rehearsals several times each week preparatory to presenting "The Messiah" in First Methodist church.

Solo roles this year will be sung by Mrs. Clarence W. Assenheimer, soprano of Upper Sandusky; Miss Ruth Hieber, Mrs. Clarence E. Tuller and Mrs. Martha Schieber, contraltos, and Harold Mollencop, tenor, and C. L. Kantzer, bass.

A stringed ensemble composed of Mrs. Wallace Moore, Miss Ione Hertzer, Homer Huffman, Howard Schieber and Miss Evelyn Schieber will provide the musical background.

Mrs William Unger is directing the rehearsals.

CRESTLINE—Mr. and Mrs. Jay Bishop of Ontario are the parents of a son born Thursday at Crestline Emergency hospital.

SOVIET PLANES BOMB FINLAND'S CAPITAL AGAIN

Big Bombers Drop Explosives, Spray Death on City With Machinegun Fire.

Leningrad, almost to the border of far Northern Norway, above the Arctic Circle at the opposite end of the 800-mile Finnish-Russian frontier.

Red warplanes' bombs had set fire to part of Helsinki, taking at least 40 lives, and had partly razed three towns in Finland's 20-mile-wide corridor to the Arctic ocean.

The Red fleet seized the Finnish Island of Seiskari in the Gulf of Finland and had begun shelling Viipuri (Viborg) and other cities and towns on the Finnish coast.

Before the resignation of the cabinet, which had negotiated fruitlessly for weeks with Russia on Soviet territorial demands on Finland, a Moscow broadcast had threatened annihilation of Helsinki unless an agreement were reached by 3 a m (8 p m, EST, Thursday).

A representative of the United States legation here forwarded word of the government's resignation to Moscow and it was expected that the American embassy there would relay it to the Kremlin.

(Russia's contention has been that the presence of Finnish troops near the Russian frontier close to Leningrad threatened the security of the Soviet's second city and Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff declared just before hostilities began that a settlement could not be "conditional upon the bad faith of the present Finnish leaders."

(The resignation of the Finnish cabinet was regarded in some circles as a move for an armistice and a new premier was expected to attempt to restore diplomatic relations.)

"Once and for all," declared Eljas Erkko, foreign minister in the Cajander cabinet, in a broadcast last night intended for the United States, "I wish to say that Finland has not wanted war, has no desire to be a threat to anyone and has no desire to become the instrument of a third power."

Erkko thanked the American people for their support "in the hour of our adversity."

"Finland intended to live in peace," he said. "Despite all our efforts we are the victims of an attack. All that is left for us is to defend our liberty our existence with all the means at our disposal

"Despite all this we have not resorted to war blindly but we remain ready to work for a solution of the dispute by conciliation.

(Erkko's broadcast was not heard in the United States. Refused radio relay through Germany, he spoke on a relay through Stockholm but attempts to pick up his voice in New York were unsuccessful).

No Surrender, Says Finnish Legation.

LONDON—(AP)—The Finnish legation declared today there was no question of a Finnish surrender to Soviet Russia.

The legation declared that the Russian land offensive had been stopped and that no landings from warships of the Red fleet had been accomplished on Finnish soil.

It added that the government of Finland would be reorganized on a broader basis

Plan Sunday's Musicale at Crestline

CHORAL CLUB AT CRESTLINE TO PRESENT 'MESSIAH' ON SUNDAY

CRESTLINE—The tenth annual presentation of Handel's Christmas oratorio, "The Messiah," will take place in the high school auditorium Sunday evening at 7.30. It will be given by the Crestline Choral society and guest soloists under the direction of Mrs R B Smith.

An orchestra under the direction of R. B Smith will play the accompaniment and Misses Grace McNeal and Kathryn McKean will be the piano accompanists. About 100 voices will be in the chorus.

Prof. E. E. Snyder, director of the famous Capital university chapel choir will sing the baritone solos and he has secured three other soloists, Dorothy Stephen Humphrey, soprano, Virginia Cornfild, contralto and Howard Jarrett, tenor.

Because of its tenth anniversary the Woman's Choral club, sponsors, decided to produce it on a larger scale and former members of the club and society who have moved away have been invited back to participate, many of whom have accepted past 20 years. The trouble is that the "world revolution" has been shelved for a long time and people have so far forgotten it that they fail to recognize it now on its reappearance under a new guise.

REDS FIGHT TO 'PUSH' DOCTRINE

War With Finns Move in Their Plan for World Controlled by Soviets, Says Writer.

For the first few years after the establishment of the Soviet regime, the Bolshevists dissipated their resources and energy trying to create a world Soviet by revolution.

When Joseph Stalin came to power some 15 years ago he decided that the world drive must await the consolidation of Communism at home and the building of a mighty Russia.

He proceeded to put his policy into effect, and the world revolution was held in abeyance Some five years ago the astute Stalin saw another European upheaval in the offing. He figured that this would provide the opportunity to cause civil strife in the afflicted countries, and thereby permit the spread of Communism

So Moscow quietly revived the world drive. The recent Russian moves are a more startling evidence of the trend of affairs than we have been used to, that's all.

When Russia took over eastern Poland and made the three Baltic states—Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia — virtual protectorates, it gained a strong strategic position and at the same time provided for the easy extension of Bolshevism in that area.

Control of Finland, however, with establishment of military and naval bases in that country, was necessary to give Moscow complete domination of the entire eastern Baltic. The Russians made their demands on the Finns, struck their first real opposition, and yesterday's invasion followed.

Assuming that the Russians now have secured what they want, they have established themselves in a powerful position, either for offensive or defensive operations. Germany's domination of the eastern Baltic is gone, and Nazidom must be regarding the new situation with gloom.

Russia now will be in much better position to take advantage of any opportunities which may grow out of the war between Germany and the Allies—assuming that the Soviet makes the smashing of Finland stick Not only is the Russian military position vastly improved but, since military power creates political power, Moscow may be able to extend its influence more readily.

Scandinavia naturally is greatly worried. So are the Balkans, which expect Russia to make further moves in that direction also.

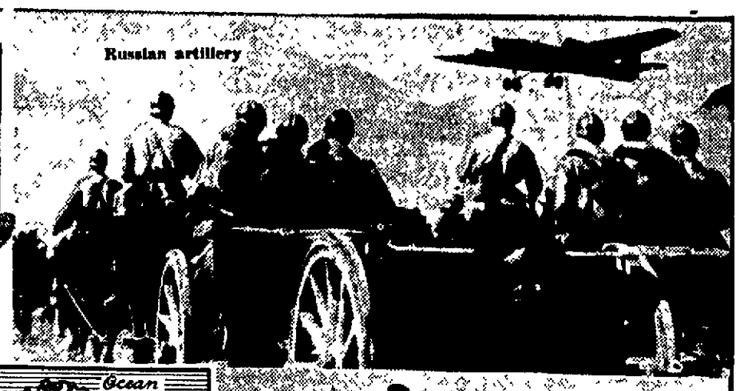
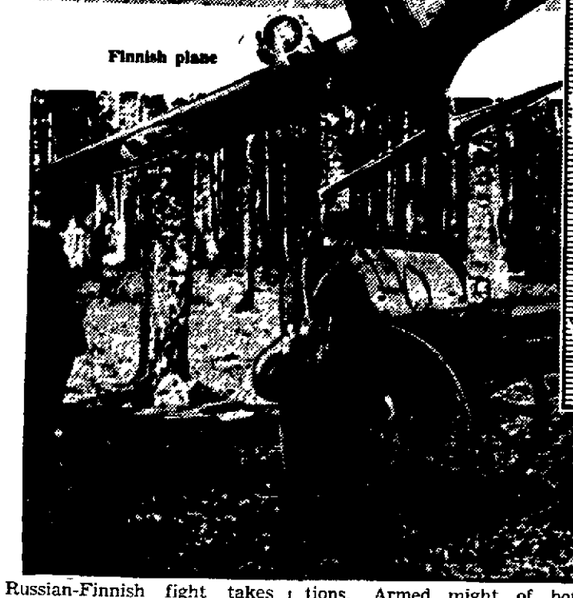
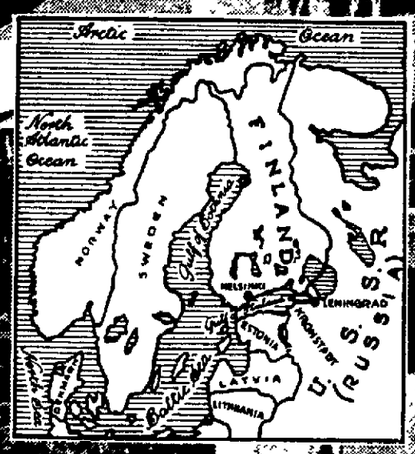
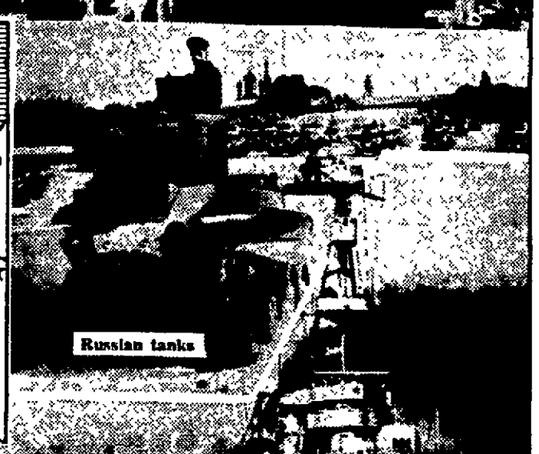
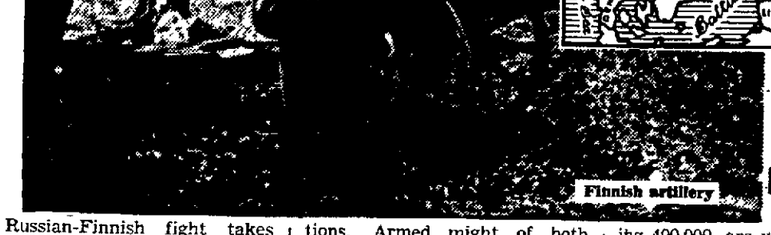
Russian-Finnish Fight Draws Attention of World to Baltic Trouble Zone











Russian-Finnish fight takes the news headlines as war breaks out between the two nations. Armed might of both countries is shown in the layout above. Finnish troops, numbering 400,000, are well-trained but small compared to Russia's legions. Russia is said to have 1,000,000 men under arms. Russian planes, tanks and ships are well known for their quantity and quality. Of interest is the Finnish plane, bearing the swastika emblem. Finland used the swastika before Germany adopted it and Finnish planes have used it since 1918. Negotiations, which had been going on for weeks, failed and hostilities began.

Nervous — Run-Down With Stomach Distress

Amazing Reports of Relief With Williams Formula Create Sensation Here.

MRS. RENA PENCE

Men and women from far and near are flocking daily to their druggist to get Williams Formula, the famous medicine which is attracting widespread attention.

People suffering from acid indigestion, stomach gas, sick-headaches, nervousness, dizziness, "half alive" feeling because of excess acidity and lazy elimination declare they can hardly believe the remarkable relief they have experienced from taking Williams Formula.

Floods of letters have been pouring in from grateful users, praising this remarkable medicine. One of the recent happy letters comes from Mrs. Rena Pence near Peoria, Illinois, (Washington):

"I wish I could have you in my home to talk to my relatives and friends who have known how I have been distressed with constipation. I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to find relief from this suffering. Nothing seemed to satisfy my appetite when I would eat. I was full of gas and bloat so that I felt heavy inside. When I tried to sleep at night I would wake with gas pains, and all of this made me very nervous and run-down.

"One day my druggist told me about Williams Formula and I started using it and began to feel a lot better. The medicine began to stimulate my lazy bowels and to relieve that smothering bloated feeling. My nerves seemed like they were relaxed, words cannot express my praises for Williams Formula, for it has relieved me and brought life anew to me. This entire statement can be verified by my neighbors and all who have known me."

17 Carloads of Food Rushed to Needy In Cleveland

U. S. OFFICIALS ACT TO EASE RELIEF CRISIS

6,000 More to Get WPA Jobs as Result of City's Plea to Washington.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—Relief officials anxiously awaited the arrival today of 17 carloads of federal surplus commodities corporation food and were confident that the city's relief emergency would be eased considerably when the supplies are distributed to 70,000 relief clients.

The food was being shipped to Cleveland in response to a personal plea in Washington yesterday by Mayor Harold H. Burton. Burton was told by Philip F. McGuire, vice president of the FSCC, that a representative would be sent immediately to Cleveland to determine what other foods could be used.

The shipment awaited by welfare officials consisted of white and graham flour, apples, oat meal and corn meal.

The city's relief emergency was expected to be further alleviated when 6,000 more WPA workers receive jobs: Col. Francis C. Harrington, national WPA administrator, told Burton in Washington that 6,000 employable single men recently refused relief orders could be put to work through reduction of the city's 25 per cent sponsorship requirement for the rest of the year.

Meanwhile, crowds continued to jam the six district relief stations and yesterday 500 regular 14-day orders were issued to all family cases and 1,400 one-to-ten day emergency orders were given out. Distribution of coal to relief clients also remained on an emergency basis.

The city's relief fund today had dwindled to $75,000 and welfare officials were doubtful whether the amount would be sufficient for the balance of the year.

FLAYS BRICKER'S STAND

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Charges that Governor Bricker had failed to keep party promises to feed hungry men and women was made today by John Owens, Ohio CIO president, after the chief executive had refused to confer with a labor delegation seeking a special legislative session to aid needy.

Yesterday the governor declined to meet the delegation on the grounds that a similar one had called on him several weeks ago about the same matter. However, the chief executive advised his aides to tell Owens he would see the labor leader alone "at any time."

50 Told They Can't Take Office Until They File Reports

More than 50 candidates who were elected to township and village offices in Richland county last month were ineligible today to take office because they hadn't told the election board how much money they spent in their campaign.

To hold office legally the successful candidates must have certificates of election from the county election board and they do not have them because they failed to file reports of their expenditures.

The delinquent candidates can still qualify, however, by submitting reports to the board of elections. Under a state law, the county prosecutor can bring action against the candidates to force them to file. The law requires filing of the reports 10 days after election.

George Balliet, president of the election board, said most of the candidates spent nothing to be elected and probably considered it unnecessary to file reports showing no expenditures. Expense blanks were mailed to the more than 300 candidates in the county following the Nov. 7 election.

Up and Down THE STREET

One Mansfield woman who actually DID her Christmas shopping early is the envy of her friends as she complacently awaits the holiday. Her shopping was all done by the last of September, she said, and if she waited any longer than that to shop she would consider herself behind schedule. A friend doesn't like her system, however. "If I couldn't wrap my last package at 11 o'clock Christmas eve I wouldn't have the proper spirit," he says.

The tiny hen out in Cheyenne, Wyo., who laid an egg THIS big, can go back to her work now and give the limelight to a hen owned by John Kleer, R. F. D. 3, Mansfield. In a pen in which 200 leghorn pullets with an average weight of four and a half pounds are confined, Kleer found an egg that was much larger than a goose egg. It measured seven and a half inches in circumference one way and eight and three-quarters inches the other way around, and Kleer still has the egg to prove it. That tops the effort of the Cheyenne bird for her masterpiece was only six inches around the middle and eight inches around it lengthwise.

There's an interesting display of soap sculpture in the main office at the Public library which was a part of the national soap sculpture show in New York City recently. The display has been loaned to the library until Dec. 7. Many of the carvings are intricate in design and the work so skillfully done that they resemble ivory figures. There is a variety of subjects, ranging from a crucifix to a Scotty puppy.

One of the few hunting occasions offered William A. Freeman, principal of Western avenue school, was spoiled by his beagle dog the other day. Hunting about eight miles from the city, Freeman's dog chased up a rabbit, which immediately raced to a good-sized hole for protection, the beagle following. But the hole was not large enough for the dog and it became trapped about four feet from the entrance. Unable to reach the animal, Freeman drove back to Mansfield to get a spade. When he returned and freed the dog it was too late to do any more hunting.

COLLEGE RAPPED

Wittenberg Suspended; Prexy Offers to Quit, Refused.

SPRINGFIELD, O. —(U.P.)— Dr. Rees Edgar Tulloss revealed today he had offered to resign as Wittenberg college president, coincidental with the college's two-year suspension from the American association of universities, but that the board of trustees had refused to consider his resignation.

Frank H. Bowles, Columbia university, secretary of the association, wrote the suspension was ordered because of "the low salaries and heavy teaching loads" of the college faculty and for other reasons.

Bowles was critical of graduate work being given by Wittenberg professors at the Dayton Y. M. C. A., "where there seemed to be a very small library, which is used by both graduates and undergraduates."

Dr. Tulloss said full restoration of salaries would depend upon the success of a campaign for $1,200,000 which has been approved by the board for 1941.

GREEN RENAMED HEAD OF OHIO FARM BUREAU AS SESSION ENDS

Richland county's Farm Bureau delegation, largest in the state, was back home today following the closing session of the Ohio Farm Bureau convention yesterday in Columbus.

The state organization re-elected Perry L. Green of Hiram president for the sixth time and adopted a number of resolutions touching on state and national issues.

Other officers re-elected are A. F. Moon of Conover, vice president; Murray D. Lincoln of Columbus, secretary; W. E. Sollars of Washington C. H., treasurer; L. A. Taylor of Columbus, assistant secretary, and J. E. Keltner of Columbus, assistant treasurer.

New trustees named for three-year terms are Harry Linebaugh of Grove City, Ben Van Gordon of Hamilton, R. H. Campbell of Wellington, Everett Hale of Burton, A. B. Ruckel of Medina, Max M. Scarff of New Carlisle, C. H. Ingraham of Marietta, Everett Rittenour of Piketon, and Mrs. C. R. Milnor of Pickerington.

Green and Lincoln were named delegates to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention in Chicago next week. J. M. Hudson of Pioneer and H. A. West of Leesburg were selected as alternates.

In its resolutions the state organization condemned the legislature for its failure to restore the state amusement tax and the tax on 3.2 bottled beer, which, the resolutions committee asserted, "left local subdivisions unable to finance their relief needs."

If both taxed had been restored to their former levels, local subdivisions would have had approximately $5,000,000 more available, state taxation officials said.

Other resolutions adopted at the state convention asked: That the TVA be extended to Ohio and that provisions of the rural electrification act be strengthened; that the federal wages and hours law be amended to exempt farm labor; that the advisability of including farmers in the state unemployment insurance system be studied; that the national budget be balanced; that old age pensions be paid on a strict basis of need; that a permanent state cigaret tax be enacted and that agriculture be given parity with industry and labor.

CLAIMS TOLEDO TO BLAME FOR FUND SHORTAGE

Answers Attack by Bowsher Who Charges Program's Unfair to Big Cities.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — E. N. Dietrich, state education director, stoutly defended the school foundation program today against assertions that it was unfair to large cities.

Criticism of the foundation was voiced by E. L. Bowsher, head of Toledo's schools, who contended it solved financial problems of 70 per cent of the schools at the expense of metropolitan areas.

"The foundation program is not to blame for the Toledo school situation," declared Dietrich, "it was the failure of the city to vote a school levy.

A fund shortage resulted in suspension of classes for about 45,000 Toledo pupils Nov. 22 but Dietrich asserted studies could resume in 1940 for an eight-month year by borrowing against anticipated tax collections.

"It is true that metropolitan areas pay into the state public school fund a larger per cent than do rural sections," Dietrich said. "At the same time, the cities have large tax duplicates from which to derive school revenue.

"The foundation provides for distribution of about $49,000,000 annually on the basis of at least $67.50 per high school pupil and $49.50 for elementary students during the period. It became effective in 1936.

"When the program went into effect," Dietrich said, "schools of Ohio were facing a very serious situation. The closing of 10,000 schools seemed imminent. The program has served to keep these schools open and provide better pay for teachers."

LIGHTS 'RESTED'

Traffic Signal Operation Time Reduced by Hour.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced today that Mansfield's traffic signals had been placed on a new night operation schedule.

The new schedule reduces by an hour the continuous operation of signals and permits a greater period of rest for the mechanism, Nist said.

Signals in the outlying districts will now be turned off at midnight while the lights in the business district will be turned on caution at the same hour. Previously the outlying lights were shut off at 1 p. m., at which time the downtown signals were placed on caution.

The "dawn to daylight" schedule was adopted several months ago after several of the units had to be repaired due to continuous operation.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Filmdoms Union Leader Called Parasite Who Preys On Wage-Earners

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Patriotism has been called the last refuge of a scoundrel, and it may be added that in the case of Willie Bioff, the Chicago vicemonger, the labor movement is the last refuge of one who was convicted of being a parasite on a harlot working the back room of a Halsted street brothel.

One day last week, during certain negotiations between Bioff and the Hollywood movie industry, he was confronted with his own record, which shows he was either an employe or a proprietor of this dive and that in a specific case he received $29 which a prostitute named Rose had earned that day by entertaining 13 customers.

Bioff immediately raised a cry that his past had been raked up for no other purpose than to discredit him as representative of the so-called stage hands' union and thus to deprive the underpaid rank and file of an increase in wages. The fact is that the rank and file never elected Bioff to represent them.

He muscled into the job as bodyguard and personal representative of George E. Browne, also of Chicago, the union president, who knew his record and who two years ago personally requested that nothing more be said about it in print. Browne's reasons for this request are apparent now.

Bioff then owed and still owes all but eight days of a sentence of six months in the Chicago Bridewell for preying on a prostitute. I knew then Bioff was a Chicago underworld character with a record of numerous arrests, but did not have proof of the conviction for pandering, and Browne explained that Willie, like many other neighborhood boys in Chicago, had merely been picked up by the police now and again and let go.

* * *

That is not the case, however. Bioff was not a boy, but was 24 years old when he was convicted of pandering, and pandering is no such amiable mischief as soaping windows on Halloween or throwing snowballs.

Bioff further says that Joseph Schenck, president of the producers' association, and his associates on the employers' side of the wage dispute, were responsible for the expose, and accuses me of "running interference" for my "plutocratic friends in Hollywood," who are attacking him because he is "fighting for the little fellows in the studios, the workmen who are fortunate to average $900 a year."

I met Schenck once, about two years ago, when I called at his office to discuss Bioff. Schenck refused to talk about him. I met Sam Goldwyn once about the same time, but did not discuss the labor problem of the studios. I met Walt Disney then and met him again two weeks ago. He is a personal friend. On this last trip I met no producers, but did see some big names.

I own no stock in any movie company, never have sold a scenario, never have worked for any movie company except one four weeks' term as publicity writer about 1921 for a promoter who was producing a Babe Ruth film called "Headin' Home," and, on this recent trip, discussed Bioff only with Buron Fitts, the prosecutor of Los Angeles county, who had no information to offer.

None of the individuals here mentioned asked me to run interference against Bioff, and the initiative and responsibility were all my own.

* * *

"Pegler might turn his truculent pen to better advantage by presenting the cause of the Hollywood workingmen, who, employed in an industry of fabulous wealth, are barely able to make a livelihood," says Bioff's statement.

And I would suggest Bioff himself has found fabulous wealth in the labor racket representing those men who are barely able to make a livelihood. So much has been said about an item of $100,000 cash which Bioff received from a representative of the employers after he had negotiated a contract with them in 1937 that the nobly altruistic Chicago vicemonger owes a duty to himself and to the "little fellows" for whom he speaks so touchingly, to explain all and explain well. Later it was called a loan.

Bioff's own union, for example, in one local, had the effrontery to demand of American citizens applying for membership an initiation fee of $3,000, plus an income tax.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Katharine Cornell, alone of the leading Broadway lights, remains a holdout on Hollywood. No amount of coaxing or tempting with salary appears sufficient to lure her here.

Helen Hayes has had her fling at pictures and—barring subsequent events which might prove me a bum prophet—she won't be having any more, thank you. Miss Hayes had, in her years of movie labor, only two or at the most three vehicles which could be considered remotely worthy of her talents: "Arrowsmith" and "Madelon Claudet" and "A Farewell to Arms." The others were of the sort any ingenue might have played.

These Broadway stars—of the Cornell-Hayes-and-so-on caliber—are deadly in earnest about roles.

One of them is Ruth Gordon, who'll speak right up and admit to 25 years in the theater before she even peeked at Hollywood.

* * *

Miss Gordon, diminutive in the Helen Hayes fashion and even plainer if you look at her through eyes over-fed on conventional "glamour," is here doing the role of Mrs. Ehrlich in the film "Dr. Ehrlich" opposite Edward G. Robinson—but what lured her west was "Abe Lincoln In Illinois."

She didn't say so, but I suspect she felt safer that way—braving the Hollywoods in company of such stage people as Raymond Massey and Producer Max Gordon, in a film version of a successful Broadway play.

What she did say was that, prior to Mary Todd Lincoln in this picture, she had never been sure that any movie role offered her would be just right. She feels the same way about the Mrs. Ehrlich assignment, although she admits it isn't as fascinating as the other.

After this, she returns to Broadway for a play, but by all means she wants to do more pictures. She's playing with the idea of filming one of the Restoration Period plays — not "The Country Wife" which was a stage hit for her, but some other which could be adapted to screen use without sending all the nation's censors into horrified collapse.

"Those plays deserve to be perpetuated," she said, "and they can't be done on the stage as well as they could be filmed. Most of the roles require stars, even the lesser ones, and Hollywood has the money for an all-star cast where the stage hasn't.

* * *

"I'm having a grand time, working in the movies, like a child with a new toy," she said before hurrying off to Glendale's antique shop "strip" to look for old-fashioned earrings for her role.

Glamour and beauty as we get used to it seem no longer the sine qua non of movie success, and Miss Gordon is no lone standard-bearer in the field. Another to be reckoned with is Flora Robson, to be seen in the Mun film, "We Are Not Alone," in an incisive portrait of a disagreeable, hard yet pitiable woman.

Miss Robson is tall, brunette, not so unattractive as she makes her film role, but still far short of beauty. Like Miss Gordon, her charm is not entirely surface, which is to the good.

She stood out, a few years back, in a film called "Fire Over England," playing Queen Elizabeth. It's interesting that she will take the character on again—it's her favorite, incidentally, in history or fiction—in "The Sea Hawk."

CLEVELAND NEAR GOAL

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Officials of Cleveland's Community Fund campaign today checked over pledges totaling $3,250,441, and expressed satisfaction with the drive which ended last night. Pledges amounted to 97 per cent of the $3,350,000.

Divorce Greatest Problem

When the charming young man to whom you're married comes to you with a troubled air and says: "My dear, I want a divorce. I'm in love with another girl. Will you help me?"—what is the right course to follow?

Most girls want to be good sports. Their ambition is to be able to "take" it. But just what does it mean to be a good sport, when it's a question of your life-happiness, your children's welfare, in fact your whole individual universe?

If you're up against such a problem, should you say, "Certainly—send your lawyer to me," or should you put up a fight? Which would be the wise procedure?

The stiffest problems besetting the young woman of today are those having to do with marital readjustments. Her husband, as in the abovementioned case, falls in love with somebody else and believes himself entitled to carry the thing through. Or, being neglected, she has allowed another man to make love to her with the result that he wishes to marry her.

Or, she is in such a chronically nervous and sensitive state because of the divorce and unhappiness of her own parents that she is scarcely qualified to lead a normal life. What education has she ever had that will help her through any one of these difficulties?

In the case I first mentioned, the girl adores her husband. A congenial couple in all their tastes, they are just prosperous enough not to be money-spoiled. They have two delightful children. The young wife, who married her first love and never gave a moment's thought to any other man, regards marriage with an almost religious seriousness. She has thought of it in terms of a lifetime. Now, with the floor pulled from under her, what shall she do.

If you really care, a girl like this will tell you, divorce isn't a thing you can take lightly, however much of a sport you may try to be. It's the next thing to death, at least it seems so in those first terrible months.

But, of course, she can insist on remaining Mrs. John Brown and take the chance of her husband's recovering his feeling for her after the other love has burned out. She can take the position that her own love has been too deep a reality to give up at a day's notice. And she can reasonably argue that her children's lives will be maimed by their parents' divorce.

Some wise person will have to give us a new code. Somebody will have to supply us with the standard answers, if there can be any, to such questions as I have suggested.

Meanwhile, I should like to put a gentle reminder to the effect that married love, a marriage that is a true mating, is a thing worth struggling to retain. Suppose a husband or wife is momentarily bewitched by beauty or charm in another quarter. Why should such an impulse be yielded to?

If divorce is always at the back of one's mind as an interesting possibility, a means of proving that one is modern and not hidebound, opportunities for bringing it about will, of course, present themselves. Which is just the mistake that many otherwise sensible young people make.

5 teaspoons brown sugar
5 teaspoons butter

Arrange pineapple rings on top of the rice mixture. On each ring sprinkle 1 teaspoon brown sugar, dot with 1 teaspoon butter, add three whole cloves. Place the casserole in a moderate (375° F.) oven for 15-25 minutes until thoroughly heated and pineapple rings are glazed.

RAISINED CRANBERRIES

Put some raisins in cranberry sauce or jelly you plan to serve with ham or fowl. It's a grand combination. Use about a third of a cupful to each two cups of berries.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I did not have to wait long for Edith Fairfax's reply to my proposal.

"I think I have been mad for a long time, Madge," she said brokenly, at last. "But this last awful thing which has come as my punishment, has made me sane again. I am not a hypocrite. I do not love you as I used to, and I do—no, I will never say that again."

"But I can tell you, how repentant I am for all the trouble I have caused you," she said, "and especially for that lying letter I sent you to New Hampshire. You know now, of course, why I told you I was dying and made that plea to you not to tell Dicky what I said."

"I wanted to warn you of the jam Dicky was in," she went on, "so that you would go to New York and find out enough to make you send him away from you. Yes, I know it was the most despicable of schemes, but I was crazy, I guess. I don't know any other word that would describe my state of mind when I wrote that letter."

Her voice trailed away drearily into silence, a silence that was not broken by any of the rest of us until she herself spoke again.

"I never can atone for what I have done," she said, finally, "never can undo the harm I have caused."

"There are two ways of looking at that, Ede," Lillian said briskly. "Of course, there's no denying that if you had a hand in starting this mess, something about which I beg to reserve judgment, the consequences might have been so tragic that you never could have looked anybody, including yourself, in the face, again, and you would have been lucky if you had escaped more serious consequences, especially if they had succeeded in getting hold of the Chief.

"But, of course, that wasn't even a possibility, as they were planning to work through Dicky, and the Dicky-Bird would have had every pinfeather drawn and then been roasted alive before he would have uttered a single syllable which would have betrayed Madge's father.

"However," Lillian swept on briskly, "without knowing it, you turned a trick for which the Chief would give you the Croix de Guerre mit palms if he had one handy. We've been trying to link Jack Leslie with something that has not even been mentioned out loud yet, even in our best diplomatic secret service circles, and a few minutes ago these babies downstairs, who've been throwing so much dirt around about Dicky, came clean with the whole business. It took a little persuasion, but they finally saw the light, and we have a great deal of light in formerly dark corners, as a result."

"So you see, Ede, instead of doing harm, you have done a great deal of good, so you ought to be able to salve your conscience and sleep well o'nights."

"Thank you, Lil," Edith replied dispiritedly. "You are very kind to tell me these things but my own opinion of myself isn't altered. There is only one thing I can do to atone even slightly, and I'm doing that now. Dicky, Madge, I shall make no more trouble about the magazine. I'm getting out today. Pay me anything you choose; I never shall trouble you about it again."

There was such abject surrender, such infinite suffering in her voice, that every chivalrous impulse within me leaped in protest, and I spoke quickly, in what I knew was a Quixotic gesture, but I could not have held the words back. They would have choked me.

"I'm sure Dicky will agree with me, Ede, that you need not get out of the magazine," I said.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

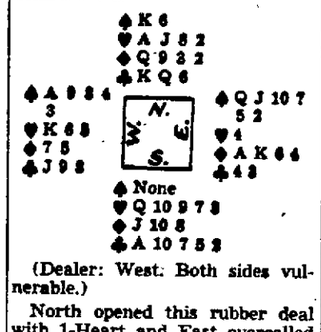
"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD DECIDES IT

Whether you can make a game or not may depend entirely on the question of which defender has the lead against you. One of them may be in a position to pick an opening which will wreck your cause, whereas the other may do just what you desire. Keeping this in mind can sometimes produce a brilliant bid.



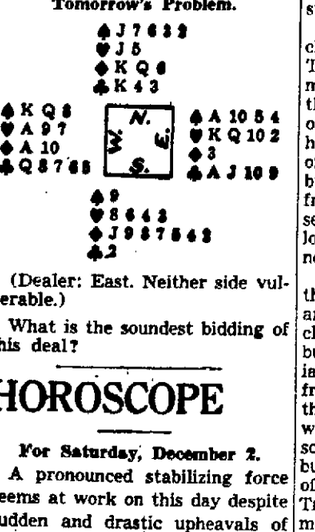
(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

North opened this rubber deal with 1-Heart and East overcalled with 1-Spade. The far-seeing player in the South, Al Kling of New York, leaped at once to 4-Hearts, because of his lack of spades, to make it difficult for the opponents to find a fit. West, in spite of this, went to 4-Spades.

When this reached Mr. Kling in the South, he decided that West would be almost sure to lead his partner's suit, whereas East might find a successful defense in diamonds. He therefore bid 5-Clubs, and when this was passed he became the declarer. The spade Ace was led and ruffed, three clubs taken and the contract made with the loss of two diamonds.

Had he bid 5-Hearts, East would have taken two diamonds, and then a diamond ruff would have beaten the contract. Had he passed, his side could have set 4-Spades only one trick.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the soundest bidding of this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, December 2.

A pronounced stabilizing force seems at work on this day despite sudden and drastic upheavals of a radical nature. This is incidental to the breaking away of long-static and frustrating conditions. With the smashing of this crystallization, there are indications of decided progress. Industry, perseverance and patience are needed.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of decidedly improved conditions, with much gain and enduring progress, although such may be accompanied by drastic upheavals, revolutionary change or other devastating visitations. These may be needful to break up old, stagnant and crystallized situations. Hard work, patience and fortitude find reward in enhanced possessions, increased property and investment valuation, or other concrete forms of prosperity.

A child born on this day, although shrewd, profound, persistent and generally solid and substantial, may have moods of unrest, eccentricity or flightiness, perhaps as an escape from certain psychological inhibitions or restrictions. It may earn fair success or inherit a measure of fortune.

In 1900 only one person in 10 had a life insurance policy. Now every other American has one.

Give Hair Careful Attention

By MME. QUI VIVE

Though woman is afflicted with numerous beauty alarms baldness is not one of them. She listens to the sobbing of the Daddy, thanks heaven that the thinned dome isn't likely to be her fate. Just why she is immune from this terrible state of affairs, nobody can say.

As the years accumulate, the character of the hair may change. There is a thinning at the temples maybe, but seldom a receding of the forward hair line. The crown of the head stays padded with its hirsute foliage. At the first signs of a depleted halo, the lady gets busy. In that way she is different from the male of the species who seldom gets active until the scalp looms up in all its horrid nakedness.

She must work on the scalp as the gardener works on the soil around his plants. A healthy, clean scalp with blood streams buzzing usually produces a luxuriant growth of fuzzers. Vigorous friction every night with a tonic that has an alcoholic content to warm the flesh does accomplish something. More and more are we building faith on massage because of its invigorating influence. Treatments must not be spasmodic, but frequent and sufficiently prolonged to tone the tissues and hustle up the circulatory streams.

It is a pretty well established fact that diet has something to do with the condition of the complexion; surveys made by dentists show that certain foods contribute to the health of the teeth and gums. By and by we may have a hair growing diet. Until that happy time comes every woman—for the sake of vitality and good appearance—should stick to a balanced diet which includes a fair quantity of fruits, green salads and vegetables. Some hair specialists believe that men go bald because so many of them belong to the meat-potatoes and pie cult, having little appetite for vegetables and fruits that provide necessary vitamins and mineral salts.

There's no question that harsh shampoo mediums will have a deplorable effect upon the hair. They make the shafts dull and lifeless.

THESE are busy and exciting days for Barbara Barron as she's doing chorus and specialty tap and acrobatic dancing in the new musical comedy, "Caribbean Cruise," which will open in Philadelphia, Monday night. . . . Now in case you're wondering who Barbara Barron is, I'd better tell you that she's a former Mansfielder—Babe Hyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hyman. . . . Mrs. Hyman has just returned from a visit with her daughter in New York City this week. . . . Barbara went east two years ago, and she has been a student at the American Ballet school—where she studied under George Balanchine, husband and instructor of the famous Vera Zorina of "I Married An Angel" and "On Your Toes." . . . The "Caribbean Cruise" will be on the road three weeks before opening on Broadway.

* * *

The Delta Theta Tau formal tomorrow night was to have been a Thanksgiving dance—but then they changed the date of Thanksgiving . . . it's a little too early for Christmas . . . and so it's a "between holiday" affair the sorority girls are giving in the ball room of the Mansfield-Leland hotel from 10 until 2 tomorrow night. . . . Bob Richards' orchestra will furnish the music for dancing, and the proceeds will go to charity. . . . Helen Bunn, Lee Heim, Mildred Angle, Dorothy Hamaker, Mrs. Edward Channel, Mrs. Homer Swift, Mrs. Harry Mehock, Mrs. Ernest Geigen and Mrs. Norman Wolfe are in charge of the arrangements.

* * *

Speaking of the Delta Theta Tau dance, Naomi Stutz has included that on her schedule of "musts" while entertaining her house guest, Sara Reynolds, this week-end. . . . Sara is a student at Oberlin college, and she and Naomi became friends in New York City while Naomi was doing secretarial work at Columbia university this last summer.

* * *

SOME other Mansfield girls will be dancing down in Delaware this week-end. . . . Helen Underwood and Ursula Brocious are going down to Ohio Wesleyan university to attend the Sigma Chi fraternity formal as guests of Tom Scott and Jack Lyons—Mansfield boys, who are freshmen members of the fraternity there.

* * *

Although February is usually considered his best month, little ol' Dan Cupid seems to be doing all right this season too—that is if you can judge from the number of engagements and weddings we've been having of late. . . . Helen Isaly evidently caught his latest dart, because she's wearing a beautiful diamond ring on that all-important finger of the left hand these days—a gift from Jack Henry of Sandusky.

* * *

MRS. LOUIS H. HEHMAN is in Detroit this week visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Marantette. . . . You probably remember Mrs. Marantette as Mary Lou Hehman, a former resident who moved to Detroit following her marriage last spring—she and her husband have just moved into a new apartment.

* * *

BY MAIL AND TELEPHONE: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Adams and their daughter, Nancy, have returned to St. Louis, Mo., following a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Torrence. . . . Joseph B. Montgomery, jr., of Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, is staying at the Hotel Belmont Plaza in New York City this week. . . . Fanny Spangler is leaving for her home in Marion, Ind., Sunday—she's been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Kerr, here since Thanksgiving.

* * *

IF YOU should hear much jingling of sleigh bells while down town this week, don't be too disappointed at not seeing Santa Claus and his reindeer when you turn around . . . because more than likely you'll see a group of our local high school girls—it's the fad now, you know—wearing bells tied in your shoe laces so that they'll jingle as you walk along. . . . A novel idea, you'll surely agree, and it does blend in with the Christmas spirit, doesn't it?

Divorce Greatest Problem

When the charming young man to whom you're married comes to you with a troubled air and says: "My dear, I want a divorce. I'm in love with another girl. Will you help me?"—what is the right course to follow?

Most girls want to be good sports. Their ambition is to be able to "take" it. But just what does it mean to be a good sport, when it's a question of your life-happiness, your children's welfare, in fact your whole individual universe?

If you're up against such a problem, should you say, "Certainly—send your lawyer to me," or should you put up a fight? Which would be the wise procedure?

The stiffest problems besetting the young woman of today are those having to do with marital readjustments. Her husband, as in the abovementioned case, falls in love with somebody else and believes himself entitled to carry the thing through. Or, being neglected, she has allowed another man to make love to her with the result that he wishes to marry her.

Or, she is in such a chronically nervous and sensitive state because of the divorce and unhappiness of her own parents that she is scarcely qualified to lead a normal life. What education has she ever had that will help her through any one of these difficulties?

In the case I first mentioned, the girl adores her husband. A congenial couple in all their tastes, they are just prosperous enough not to be money-spoiled. They have two delightful children. The young wife, who married her first love and never gave a moment's thought to any other man, regards marriage with an almost religious seriousness. She has thought of it in terms of a lifetime. Now, with the floor pulled from under her, what shall she do.

If you really care, a girl like this will tell you, divorce isn't a thing you can take lightly, however much of a sport you may try to be. It's the next thing to death, at least it seems so in those first terrible months.

But, of course, she can insist on remaining Mrs. John Brown and take the chance of her husband's recovering his feeling for her after the other love has burned out. She can take the position that her own love has been too deep a reality to give up at a day's notice. And she can reasonably argue that her children's lives will be maimed by their parents' divorce.

Some wise person will have to give us a new code. Somebody will have to supply us with the standard answers, if there can be any, to such questions as I have suggested.

Meanwhile, I should like to put a gentle reminder to the effect that married love, a marriage that is a true mating, is a thing worth struggling to retain. Suppose a husband or wife is momentarily bewitched by beauty or charm in another quarter. Why should such an impulse be yielded to?

If divorce is always at the back of one's mind as an interesting possibility, a means of proving that one is modern and not hidebound, opportunities for bringing it about will, of course, present themselves. Which is just the mistake that many otherwise sensible young people make.

HE GUESSED WRONG

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I did not have to wait long for Edith Fairfax's reply to my proposal.

"I think I have been mad for a long time, Madge," she said brokenly, at last. "But this last awful thing which has come as my punishment, has made me sane again. I am not a hypocrite. I do not love you as I used to, and I do—no, I will never say that again."

"But I can tell you, how repentant I am for all the trouble I have caused you," she said, "and especially for that lying letter I sent you to New Hampshire. You know now, of course, why I told you I was dying and made that plea to you not to tell Dicky what I said."

"I wanted to warn you of the jam Dicky was in," she went on, "so that you would go to New York and find out enough to make you send him away from you. Yes, I know it was the most despicable of schemes, but I was crazy, I guess. I don't know any other word that would describe my state of mind when I wrote that letter."

Her voice trailed away drearily into silence, a silence that was not broken by any of the rest of us until she herself spoke again.

"I never can atone for what I have done," she said, finally, "never can undo the harm I have caused."

"There are two ways of looking at that, Ede," Lillian said briskly. "Of course, there's no denying that if you had a hand in starting this mess, something about which I beg to reserve judgment, the consequences might have been so tragic that you never could have looked anybody, including yourself, in the face, again, and you would have been lucky if you had escaped more serious consequences, especially if they had succeeded in getting hold of the Chief.

"But, of course, that wasn't even a possibility, as they were planning to work through Dicky, and the Dicky-Bird would have had every pinfeather drawn and then been roasted alive before he would have uttered a single syllable which would have betrayed Madge's father.

"However," Lillian swept on briskly, "without knowing it, you turned a trick for which the Chief would give you the Croix de Guerre mit palms if he had one handy. We've been trying to link Jack Leslie with something that has not even been mentioned out loud yet, even in our best diplomatic secret service circles, and a few minutes ago these babies downstairs, who've been throwing so much dirt around about Dicky, came clean with the whole business. It took a little persuasion, but they finally saw the light, and we have a great deal of light in formerly dark corners, as a result."

"So you see, Ede, instead of doing harm, you have done a great deal of good, so you ought to be able to salve your conscience and sleep well o'nights."

"Thank you, Lil," Edith replied dispiritedly. "You are very kind to tell me these things but my own opinion of myself isn't altered. There is only one thing I can do to atone even slightly, and I'm doing that now. Dicky, Madge, I shall make no more trouble about the magazine. I'm getting out today. Pay me anything you choose; I never shall trouble you about it again."

There was such abject surrender, such infinite suffering in her voice, that every chivalrous impulse within me leaped in protest, and I spoke quickly, in what I knew was a Quixotic gesture, but I could not have held the words back. They would have choked me.

"I'm sure Dicky will agree with me, Ede, that you need not get out of the magazine," I said.

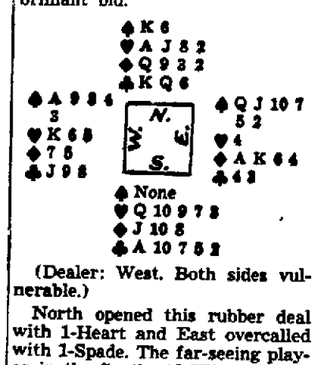
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD DECIDES IT

Whether you can make a game or not may depend entirely on the question of which defender has the lead against you. One of them may be in a position to pick an opening which will wreck your cause, whereas the other may do just what you desire. Keeping this in mind can sometimes produce a brilliant bid.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

North opened this rubber deal with 1-Heart and East overcalled with 1-Spade. The far-seeing player in the South, Al Kling of New York, leaped at once to 4-Hearts, because of his lack of spades, to make it difficult for the opponents to find a fit. West, in spite of this, went to 4-Spades.

When this reached Mr. Kling in the South, he decided that West would be almost sure to lead his partner's suit, whereas East might find a successful defense in diamonds. He therefore bid 5-Clubs, and when this was passed he became the declarer. The spade Ace was led and ruffed, three clubs taken and the contract made with the loss of two diamonds.

Had he bid 5-Hearts, East would have taken two diamonds, and then a diamond ruff would have beaten the contract. Had he passed, his side could have set 4-Spades only one trick.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the soundest bidding of this deal?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, December 2.

A pronounced stabilizing force seems at work on this day despite sudden and drastic upheavals of a radical nature. This is incidental to the breaking away of long-static and frustrating conditions. With the smashing of this crystallization, there are indications of decided progress. Industry, perseverance and patience are needed.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of decidedly improved conditions, with much gain and enduring progress, although such may be accompanied by drastic upheavals, revolutionary change or other devastating visitations. These may be needful to break up old, stagnant and crystallized situations. Hard work, patience and fortitude find reward in enhanced possessions, increased property and investment valuation, or other concrete forms of prosperity.

A child born on this day, although shrewd, profound, persistent and generally solid and substantial, may have moods of unrest, eccentricity or flightiness, perhaps as an escape from certain psychological inhibitions or restrictions. It may earn fair success or inherit a measure of fortune.

In 1900 only one person in 10 had a life insurance policy. Now every other American has one.

Give Hair Careful Attention

By MME. QUI VIVE

Though woman is afflicted with numerous beauty alarms baldness is not one of them. She listens to the sobbing of the Daddy, thanks heaven that the thinned dome isn't likely to be her fate. Just why she is immune from this terrible state of affairs, nobody can say.

As the years accumulate, the character of the hair may change. There is a thinning at the temples maybe, but seldom a receding of the forward hair line. The crown of the head stays padded with its hirsute foliage. At the first signs of a depleted halo, the lady gets busy. In that way she is different from the male of the species who seldom gets active until the scalp looms up in all its horrid nakedness.

She must work on the scalp as the gardener works on the soil around his plants. A healthy, clean scalp with blood streams buzzing usually produces a luxuriant growth of fuzzers. Vigorous friction every night with a tonic that has an alcoholic content to warm the flesh does accomplish something. More and more are we building faith on massage because of its invigorating influence. Treatments must not be spasmodic, but frequent and sufficiently prolonged to tone the tissues and hustle up the circulatory streams.

It is a pretty well established fact that diet has something to do with the condition of the complexion; surveys made by dentists show that certain foods contribute to the health of the teeth and gums. By and by we may have a hair growing diet. Until that happy time comes every woman—for the sake of vitality and good appearance—should stick to a balanced diet which includes a fair quantity of fruits, green salads and vegetables. Some hair specialists believe that men go bald because so many of them belong to the meat-potatoes and pie cult, having little appetite for vegetables and fruits that provide necessary vitamins and mineral salts.

There's no question that harsh shampoo mediums will have a deplorable effect upon the hair. They make the shafts dull and lifeless.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

THESE are busy and exciting days for Barbara Barron as she's doing chorus and specialty tap and acrobatic dancing in the new musical comedy, "Caribbean Cruise," which will open in Philadelphia, Monday night. . . . Now in case you're wondering who Barbara Barron is, I'd better tell you that she's a former Mansfielder—Babe Hyman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hyman. . . . Mrs. Hyman has just returned from a visit with her daughter in New York City this week. . . . Barbara went east two years ago, and she has been a student at the American Ballet school—where she studied under George Balanchine, husband and instructor of the famous Vera Zorina of "I Married An Angel" and "On Your Toes." . . . The "Caribbean Cruise" will be on the road three weeks before opening on Broadway.

The Delta Theta Tau formal tomorrow night was to have been a Thanksgiving dance—but then they changed the date of Thanksgiving . . . it's a little too early for Christmas . . . and so it's a "between holiday" affair the sorority girls are giving in the ball room of the Mansfield-Leland hotel from 10 until 2 tomorrow night. . . . Bob Richards' orchestra will furnish the music for dancing, and the proceeds will go to charity. . . . Helen Bunn, Lee Heim, Mildred Angle, Dorothy Hamaker, Mrs. Edward Channel, Mrs. Homer Swift, Mrs. Harry Mehock, Mrs. Ernest Geigen and Mrs. Norman Wolfe are in charge of the arrangements.

* * *

Speaking of the Delta Theta Tau dance, Naomi Stutz has included that on her schedule of "musts" while entertaining her house guest, Sara Reynolds, this week-end. . . . Sara is a student at Oberlin college, and she and Naomi became friends in New York City while Naomi was doing secretarial work at Columbia university this last summer.

* * *

SOME other Mansfield girls will be dancing down in Delaware this week-end. . . . Helen Underwood and Ursula Brocious are going down to Ohio Wesleyan university to attend the Sigma Chi fraternity formal as guests of Tom Scott and Jack Lyons—Mansfield boys, who are freshmen members of the fraternity there.

Although February is usually considered his best month, little ol' Dan Cupid seems to be doing all right this season too—that is if you can judge from the number of engagements and weddings we've been having of late. . . . Helen Isaly evidently caught his latest dart, because she's wearing a beautiful diamond ring on that all-important finger of the left hand these days—a gift from Jack Henry of Sandusky.

MRS. LOUIS H. HEHMAN is in Detroit this week visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Marantette. . . . You probably remember Mrs. Marantette as Mary Lou Hehman, a former resident who moved to Detroit following her marriage last spring—she and her husband have just moved into a new apartment.

* * *

BY MAIL AND TELEPHONE: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Adams and their daughter, Nancy, have returned to St. Louis, Mo., following a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Torrence. . . . Joseph B. Montgomery, jr., of Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, is staying at the Hotel Belmont Plaza in New York City this week. . . . Fanny Spangler is leaving for her home in Marion, Ind., Sunday—she's been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Kerr, here since Thanksgiving.

IF YOU should hear much jingling of sleigh bells while down town this week, don't be too disappointed at not seeing Santa Claus and his reindeer when you turn around . . . because more than likely you'll see a group of our local high school girls—it's the fad now, you know—wearing bells tied in your shoe laces so that they'll jingle as you walk along. . . . A novel idea, you'll surely agree, and it does blend in with the Christmas spirit, doesn't it?

Rule Changes Hit Basketball.

HIGH school basketball teams swing into action on the majority of the fronts tonight, and spectators will find a few rule changes . . . For one thing, the baskets will be four feet within the end line this season to make more room for rebound work and reduce the danger of payers crashing in the wall after following shots into the bucket . . . This change will give the bigger teams an advantage on rebound play . . . After technical fouls this season, the shooting team will take the ball out-of-bounds in the end zone, made or missed, instead of being taken to the center for a jump . . . Players fouled from the rear while in the act of shooting will receive two shots, whether or not the basket is made . . . If the officials rule the infraction deliberate, the offending player will be disqualified . . . As in football, a player fouled may reject or accept a foul this season . . .

Willard Honored On 'Big Four' Team

Ed Willard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Willard, 4 Whitehill apartments, received additional recognition when he was named to an end position on the Cleveland Plain Dealer All-"Big Four" team, chosen from players with Cleveland college elevens. Willard, a senior, was an end on the John Carroll team for three years.

Willard and Ed Chatlain of Wittenberg, another Mansfield boy, were given honorable mention on the Associated Press All-Ohio team released today.

Tygers Named By U-P

Russ Beer and Mike Horvath Selected on All-Ohio Reserve Team; Hamilton Mentioned.

By JIM EMERSON

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Headed by four great players from Massillon's 24-victory juggernaut, northeastern Ohio schools grabbed 11 berths on the all-Ohio high school football squad of 27 boys released today by the United Press.

The star-studded squad represents the expert judgment of more than 225 coaches, officials and newspapermen from every county in the state.

* * *

Northwestern Ohio was second in representation on the squad with five boys; the eastern sector had four; southeastern, four; southwestern, two, and central, one.

* * *

New Philadelphia, unbeaten and tied once in nine games, landed three players; Conneaut, Lorain, Portsmouth and Toledo Waite, all unbeaten, two each.

Capt. Mike Horvath and Russ Beers, guard and tackle, respectively, of the Mansfield high team, were named on the reserve team. Other reserve selections were Howard Hamilton of Bellville, the state's leading scorer, and Phil Ganni of Crestline.

On the basis off wide margins of superiority in the balloting, the two brightest among the stars were: Back of the year — Hillis Hume, Alliance, quarterback. Lineman of the year—Horace Gillow, Massillon, end.

Rather than draw hairline decisions of judgment and attempt to designate first, second and teams from more than 200 player nominations, the United Press culled this all-Ohio squad from the boys ranking highest in the voting.

Here are high lights in the voting:

Hume who has scored 252 points in the last two years, more than any other player in Ohio, received more first place votes (45) than any other star. Gillom was next with 36 firsts.

Gillom and Ray Getz, his teammate on the other end at Massillon, undoubtedly form the best end pair in the state—and both are only juniors. Getz placekicked more than 26 extra points. Earl Benjamin, New Philadelphia end, didn't miss a minute of play.

* * *

There was a general scarcity of outstanding tackles; not so many halfback candidates as might be expected; a bountiful supply of fullbacks, ends and centers.

* * *

Four of the all-Ohio backs scored more than 100 points—Hume, 120; John Willis of Lorain, 113; George Slusser of Massillon, 108, and Gene Balconi of Sandusky, 103.

Toughest to exclude from the all-Ohio squad — Gild Pedrotty, Massillon tackle; Jack Castignola, New Philadelphia halfback; Earl Martin, Massillon center; Paul Kline, Portsmouth quarterback; Andy Marantides, Canton McKinley halfback.

Lloyd (Bronco) Reese, New Philadelphia fullback, is only a junior but has been on the Quaker varsity for three seasons.

Scores 40 to 5 Victory Over Brinkerhoff Five.

The Bushnell school quintet and Rowe of Prospect shared the spotlight in opening games in the Grade school basketball league at Mansfield Senior high yesterday.

Bushnell, led by R. Jones and Scott, smothered Brinkerhoff, 40 to 5, to win team scoring honors, while Rowe tipped in 17 points as his team dropped Woodland, 18 to 7. R. Jones and Scott scored 14 points apiece for Bushnell.

In the other contests in the initial round, Newman swamped Western, 23 to 16, Carpenter, paced by Mercer, who tallied 16 points, beat Hedges by a 20 to 4 score, and Bowman, the defending champion, edged West Fifth, 12 to 10, in a nip-and-tuck battle.

Bluejays Rated Among Favorites In County Race

W. H. Miley, above, replaced Royd Hodge as basketball coach at Bellville high this year.

Play Final Ohio Collegiate Game

COLUMBUS —(INS)— With the exception of one game, Ohio collegiate football has dipped behind the sports horizon for another year.

Tomorrow, Ohio Wesleyan and Dayton tangle at Dayton in a match that should produce a first class brand of football, although nothing is at stake except the traditional rivalry existing between the two foes. If Jack Padley, all-Ohio halfback, is at his peak, Dayton should conclude its season with a victory. Wesleyan, an in-and-out eleven, possesses a sometimes deadly aerial attack which might trouble the Gem City lads.

Jim Reiser Leads Balloting On A-P All-Ohio Grid Team

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Recognition of gridiron greatness came to eight seniors and three juniors today as college coaches placed 11 stars on the 1939 Associated Press All-Ohio team, to which players on all squads except Ohio State were eligible.

Ohio Wesleyan's Jim Reiser, senior end, led the balloting and won the captaincy of the All-Ohio. The star wing, from New Philadelphia, who shunned football as a freshman and sophomore, caught 36 passes during the year for a gain of 527 yards. He scored three touchdowns on aerials, and tossed laterals for touchdowns after taking two other passes.

City League Opens Season Thursday

The City Class A league will play its games at Mansfield high school on Thursday instead of Wednesday night this season, it was decided yesterday when league officials conferred with J. B. Moke, superintendent of Mansfield school buildings.

The first game of the season will be held next Thursday, with the Mansfield Hi-Speeds meeting the Kochheiser Athletic Supply in the first game and the Yuncker Sports, defending champions, facing Westinghouse in the second tilt.

Hoffman's Club Tackles Alumni

Miller, Beer, Rudolph, Herpich and Rose Likely Starters In 1939-40 Opener.

MANSFIELD high school's new basketball edition will be unveiled at the Tyger lair at 8:30 p. m. today when it launches its season against an alumni team studded with members of the district championship quintet.

Tonight's game will also mark the debut of Vern Hoffman as head basketball coach in Mansfield.

Mansfield cage prospects this year are questionable as the first-string lineup of the titular team has been wrecked by graduation.

* * *

Hoffman, however, has assembled a promising crew of basketeers, and if it develops as rapidly as the new mentor hopes, Mansfield should be a factor in the tournament next spring.

* * *

After being drilled by Russ Murphy, Hoffman's predecessor, in a slow-breaking game, the Tyger candidates are having some trouble accustoming themselves to the new style.

Hoffman's Bellevue teams featured a fast-breaking offense, and this is the type of offense he is attempting to install at Mansfield.

It is likely that the starting lineup tonight will consist of Gene Rudolph and Gene Miller, forwards; Russ Beer, center, and Bill Herpich and Don Rose, guards.

This combination is subject to change, Hoffman said, but indicated that this lineup stacks up as his best at this stage of the season.

Other players likely to see considerable action tonight are Chuck Atton, Dave Prion, Jack Shiplet, Harry Phillips and Joe Kieffer.

Although basketball practice was delayed by the post-season football game, the Tygers are reported in fine shape by Hoffman. Practice games with Mt. Vernon and Madison have given the Tygers the necessary game experience that they need for the opener, the coach stated.

The Alumni team's lineup will include Russell Hoff, Freddy Lewis, Elmer Dials, Noel Morgan, Tommy Scott, Jack Lyons and Joe Atton.

A preliminary game featuring the Mansfield high reserves is scheduled at 7 p. m. Admission for these games will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for senior, junior and grade school students.

Pressing of Norwalk will be the official, it was announced today.

Downtown Coaches To Meet Monday

Final organization plans will be completed by the Downtown Coaches association when it meets at the Chamber of Commerce at 8 p. m. Monday, Ned Brooks, chairman of the organization committee, announced today.

Brooks said that the election of officers will be held in conjunction with the meeting.

Women 'Steal' Armory Mat Show

THEY gave the land back to the Indians last night.

Some 1,500 palefaces, assembled about the armory tepee to watch Tim Nolan's Thursday night wrestling show, were happy about it all—even going so far as to aid and abet the restitution.

* * *

Princess Rose White Cloud, fresh from the White Cloud, (Kansas) Indian reservation and the five-and-ten war paint counter, did better than her ancestor's — she whipped white man's daughter Wilma Gordon of Philadelphia in just 14 minutes.

* * *

In that 14 minutes was packed just about anything you'll probably ever see in a wrestling ring as long as you live. There was hair-pulling, eye-gouging and tricky holds. There was villany, heroism and trouble with the referee.

The Princess, in fact had most of her trouble with Referee Clarence Miller. She had to throw him twice and slug him a couple of times before she could go on with her barefaced scalping process.

All the excitement started when the pummeling Princess got mixed up in a hold she couldn't break, lashed out with a right to the body, floored Wilma and then tried to down her.

This all appeared extremely unethical to Referee Miller so he gave out a cease and desist order that had about as much effect as a request to the administration to balance the budget. He then attempted to put a stop to it.

* * *

Rose, however, was serious about it. She body-slammed Miller over her shoulder twice, swung on him and then kicked him while he was down. Miller, gentleman throughout, made no attempt to defend himself.

* * *

Mistreatment of Miller in this manner so infuriated Wilma that she whipped Rose into an airplane spin, tried to toss her over the ropes, but Rose carried her over.

* * *

Then the Princess wouldn't let Wilma back in the ring, kicking her no less than three times. She finally made it, however. Alas, only to be pinned.

And how the fans loved it. Those who were standing in the aisles were down around the ring rooting for the Redskinned Princess, who's really a beauty.

In the final, which was a bang-up affair, Gil Knutson, Toronto, Canada, topped Tuffy Cleet, Oklahoma. The Swede won the first fall in 32 minutes with a full Nelson and top body press. The second and deciding fall also went to Knutson in five minutes, following three body slams and a top body press.

Texas Aggies Close Undefeated Season

Southwest Team Is Tennessee's Chief Rival for Rose Bowl Game.

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK—(AP)—Half filled now, a couple of the football bowls are going to be tanked right up to the brim before the week is over if the same form that held good in yesterday's juicy Thanksgiving day menu doesn't spoil before Saturday.

The Texas Aggies completed an undefeated season of ten games with a 20-0 conquest of their old rivals, the University of Texas Longhorns, and the mighty Tennessee Volunteers caged the Kentucky Wildcats 19-0 to extend their undefeated and unscored upon string right up to the final fray of the season.

These developments, as half the country observed the calendar holiday, gave the two winners everything they needed to get to the Rose and Sugar Bowls except the railroad tickets.

The other halves of the casts in these two spectacles are likely to be filled to the satisfaction of the public on Saturday when Southern California attempts to hurdle a so-so Washington team and Tulane tackles its most bitter foe, Louisiana State.

* * *

Providing U. S. C. and Tulane triumph, their assignments for next New Year's day already are laid out for them. The Trojans will be hosts in the Rose Bowl and the Green Wave will receive at the Sugar Bowl. There is no reason to believe that either will miss their parties.

While attention already has turned to the gridiron's post-season activities, there still are some attractive morsels of the regular program remaining.

The prospective Rose Bowl rivals have games pending on Dec. 9, Southern Cal against UCLA and Tennessee against Auburn.

The Army-Navy vaudeville performance is booked for Philadelphia's municipal stadium tomorrow with more than 100,000 patrons expected. In New York there'll be Stanford and Dartmouth, and NYU against Fordham. In Boston the fans will have Boston college and Holy Cross in one of the fiercest of feuds.

On other sectional fronts the Rambling Wreck of Georgia Tech, tied for the Southeastern conference title, will scrap with Georgia; undefeated Duquesne bumps into Detroit, and Southern Methodist and Texas Christian and Baylor and Rice collide.

Yesterday's firing cost Rutgers its first defeat as the Brown Bears scored twice in the final period for a 13-0 decision.

One conference championship was settled as Colorado captured a wild 27-17 fracas from Denver in the Rocky Mountains' Big Seven.

Alabama's slow-starting steam roller flattened Vanderbilt 39-0, once-beaten North Carolina walloped Virginia 19-0, and Florida escaped with a 7-7 tie against Auburn when the game ended with the Tigers on the two-yard line.

Little San Jose State preserved its place among the nation's undefeated and untied leaders with a 12-0 victory over Drake in one of the Pacific Coast's several night games. Undefeated but often tied UCLA finished strong for a 24-7 decision over Washington State in another.

Doran Leads O. S. R. Cagers to Victory

With Doran rattling the backboards for 17 points, the Ohio State Reformatory quintet walloped the Savannah, O., Merchants, 45 to 30, at the reformatory last night.

The inmates gained an 11 to 9 advantage in the opening frame and never trailed as they outscored the visitors in every period.

The Reformatory club led 20 to 14 at the half and 28 to 19 as it went into the final quarter. Doran dropped in seven field goals and a free throw for his high total. Dalton led the visitors with nine points.

Await Kickoff At Columbus

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The unbeaten football legions of Portsmouth and Toledo Waite high schools encamped in Columbus today awaiting the big moment to establish one or the other as a major pigskin power in the state this season.

On paper there was little to choose between the two teams who line up at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Ohio Stadium for the first Buckeye Bowl classic.

Waite, which rolled to 10 victories over an impressive schedule, will be weakened by the loss of All-Ohio Halfback Bob Hecklinger who suffered a broken collar bone on Thanksgiving in Waite's last victory over Toledo Scott.

Toledo Man Says Vendol Relieved Awful Backache

Discovered that all pains are not rheumatism as he once thought. Highly praises Vendol; advises everyone to take it.

MR. HENRY MALLAK

"I am glad to give a public recommendation for this splendid medicine Vendol because in all my life I never took anything that acted so nicely and gave such marvelous relief, I feel like a young man again," declares Mr. Henry Mallak, a 72 year old carpenter residing at 1421 Nebraska Street, Toledo, Ohio.

"I had awful pains in the muscles across the small of my back which made me so sore I could hardly bend over without a lot of suffering. The muscles in my arms and legs were also quite painful at times.

"Besides this trouble, I felt bilious, and sometimes little spots danced before my eyes and I'd awaken many mornings feeling tired, achy, with a coated tongue and bad taste in my mouth.

"All of my aches and pains, biliousness, and other troubles described above were due to allowing myself to be constipated.

"When I read in the papers so often what people living right here at home said about Vendol helping them get relief from the same condition, and also hearing that it was made principally from roots and herbs, I knew it must be good, so about two weeks ago I got some and also a box of the little Vendol laxative tablets, and the relief this medicine has brought is very gratifying.

"Vendol relieved my constipation first, causing full, complete action, so I continued to take it, and much to my pleasure the backache, pains in my arms and limbs, and all the other symptoms which were so annoying just gradually left me, until today I feel grand and give all credit to Vendol. It is fine and I advise everyone suffering from the same cause to begin taking Vendol at once."

Make up your mind now to begin taking Vendol and see for yourself what it will do. Come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I'll explain all about my grand medicine and tell you honestly what you may expect it to do for you. Come today if possible.

MERCHANTS TRANSFER & STORAGE CO.

Eddie Myers, Local Representative Phone Walnut 3029

Our new method of storing gas can best be compared to the practice of moving trains of coal from mines to markets for storage in summer against winter's increased demands. Due to Ohio's dwindling gas supply, most of our gas is brought in from other states. In the last two years we have been storing it in three nearly exhausted Ohio fields* located near our compressor stations. During summer months, and even on warm days in colder seasons, lines leading to the abundant gas fields of West Virginia normally would operate far below capacity. In these times we increase the use of lines and compressors by bringing gas into Ohio to be forced back into the wells of our storage fields. Thus, you are assured of a plentiful supply of gas for your appliances under the most severe demands without the investment of millions of dollars to build additional lines into West Virginia. This engineering feat makes gas service more dependable — worth more to you, while helping hold down its cost. For all modern household uses you always will find your gas cent is well spent.

The Gas Company
GREW BIGGER TO SERVE BETTER

*Storage fields must be of a geological formation that does not permit the seepage of gas into other fields—must be under complete control so that others do not drill for the gas we have stored.

GAS DOESN'T COST . . . IT PAYS!
